

Yankee Paratroopers Score Against Reds

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers have scored heavily in a series of clashes with the Viet Cong 25 miles northeast of Saigon in the D-zone jungle, American authorities reported today. They said 25 of the guerrillas were known dead and it was estimated Red casualties Wednesday totaled more than 100.

On the other side, the Viet Cong ambushed a Vietnamese government battalion 37 miles northwest of Saigon today and a U.S. spokesman said most of the battalion apparently was wiped out.

Casualties in the ambush were not immediately known, but a survivor said they were heavy. The battalion was reported under strength and probably numbered about 300 men.

Four U.S. advisers were with the battalion, the spokesman said. Their fate was not known.

The ambush was sprung as the battalion was rushing to relieve a besieged outpost at Xom Dua in Binh Duong Province. The relief battalion was sent from the nearby district capital of Tri Tam. The Communists apparently were lying in wait for the reinforcements.

As the Viet Cong sprang the trap, Communist 81mm mortars began a barrage of Tri Tam. Results were not immediately reported.

U.S. authorities reported that paratroopers of the American 173rd Airborne Brigade fought a series of clashes with the Viet Cong Wednesday in the big combined force operation in "D" zone and enemy casualties were estimated at more than 100.

There was no report of American casualties.

The action in the Communist-controlled jungle 25 miles northeast of Saigon was the biggest engagement the paratroopers have fought since their arrival in Viet Nam in May.

The paratroopers along with Australian and Vietnamese forces have been carrying on a "search and destroy" sweep through the area since Tuesday. Until Wednesday they had made little contact with the enemy.

The Viet Cong kept up its pressure in the central highlands with a mortar attack early today on the district headquarters at Kontum, a provincial capital 260 miles north of Saigon. Spokesmen said a number of shells hit the headquarters but there was no immediate word that the guerrillas followed up with an assault.

Kontum is 20 miles from Dak To, a district capital overrun by the Viet Cong Tuesday and apparently still in Red hands. Spokesmen said there had been no contact with Dak To, manned by about 150 government troops, or with the town of Dak Sut, about 18 miles to the north. The military posts in both towns have been frequent targets of the Viet Cong.

A U.S. spokesman announced that a U.S. Air Force F105 jet fighter-bomber was shot down over North Viet Nam Wednesday and the pilot apparently was captured after bailing out.

The spokesman said the plane was one of four Thunderchiefs that attacked a bridge and ferry installation 25 miles south-east of Vinh.

Red China's New China News Agency said earlier that two U.S. planes were shot down Wednesday and the pilots killed.

Marine Buildup Said 'Insurance'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landing of 8,000 more Marines in South Viet Nam was a move to "play it safe" and strengthen U.S. forces against a possible major thrust by beelie up Communist troops, military sources said today.

The action was not prompted by any specific emergency situation, the sources said.

Intensive Communist activity in the central highlands of Viet Nam, coupled with indications that the equivalent of a North Vietnamese army division may be spread through the area, has caused concern.

If the Reds should mount an assault with seven to 10 battalions against one of the U.S. enclaves along the South China Sea coast, the sources said, they might cause considerable havoc.

It was learned that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the top U.S. commander in Viet Nam, asked for the additional Marines from Okinawa because they could be brought in quickly. He said Wednesday that more "substantial confrontations" could be expected before long.

More Army troops are on their way to Viet Nam from the United States but are not due for a while yet.

Both military and civilian officials pointed to Westmoreland's current visit to Hawaii as an indicator that no imminent crisis is expected in Viet Nam.

They claimed there is no hidden significance to the general's trip — that it is mainly for the rest and a few days with his family in Honolulu.

As the U.S. buildup in Viet Nam continued, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Wednesday the United States should bomb Soviet-built missile sites in North Viet Nam.

Dixiecrats Eye GOP Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern Democrats hold the key today for House Republicans who want to substitute their voting rights bill for the administration's.

If enough Southerners heed the advice of some of their leaders to vote for the GOP substitute — which they consider a lesser evil — it could be a nip-and-tuck vote, possibly late today.

House leaders think they have the votes to turn back the GOP challenge. They put the maximum strength of the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition at 200, short of the 218 majority needed. That would include about 70 Southern Democrats.

An unknown factor, however, is the impact of a speech Wednesday by Rep. William M. Tucker, D-Va., an ardent foe of any federal voting legislation. He pleaded with Southerners to support the Republican bill, which is cosponsored by House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford and Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio.

Tucker, a former governor of Virginia, said the Ford-McCulloch bill was "relatively moderate" compared to the administration bill sponsored by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

The major difference between the two bills is that the GOP bill would apply in any locality, but only after 25 persons have complained they were denied the right to vote. The Celler bill would take effect automatically in seven Southern states where less than 50 per cent of the adult population voted or was registered in the last election.

Both bills, with their different approaches, would provide federal examiners to register qualified Negroes.

The administration bill also would abolish literacy tests for voting in seven Southern states — Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

Storekeeper Fined In Liquor Hearing Told Throw Party

SUVA, Fiji (AP)—Ram Shankar, 46, a shopkeeper, was fined 80 pounds ($224) today and told to throw a party.

Shankar was charged with having liquor in his possession in excess of personal requirements. Police seized 184 bottles of beer and 44 bottles of spirits in a raid on his premises.

Shankar told the court he planned to hold a party for 30 people.

The magistrate said he could keep 90 bottles of beer and eight bottles of spirits.

"This is on the basis that you are going to hold a party for 30 people," the magistrate said. "If you retain the liquor and do not give a party, it is still in excess of your own personal requirements. It is up to you to give a party."

Hotfoot Is Given Circus Elephants

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — A blaze flared up Wednesday in the wheel bearings and tires of a truck containing four elephants of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus.

While firemen battled flames, the truck's metal floor got hot and the pachyderms began to dance.

After the fire was doused, workers opened the cages and freed the elephants.

Sculpture of Diana OK'd Despite Label of 'Killer'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Un-touched by the controversy surrounding her, "Diana of the Woods" stands smiling in the mall of the new multimillion-dollar Maricopa County government complex.

Dedicated Wednesday the stone sculpture gave pause to countless admirers, despite the charges that as the huntress of Greek mythology, she was "a cruel goddess" and a killer.

Mrs. Gilbert Hall donated the Italian-made sculpture placed in the complex's fountain and dedicated it to the Arizona Humane Society.

The animal crusaders of Arizona opposed the gesture from the start.

"Humane societies have always opposed cruelty, including blood sports," said Betty B. Eilers, the group's executive secretary.

"Not even the human side of Diana is pleasant," she said.

"When the son of a king surprised her bathing, she turned him into a stag and wasn't satisfied or revenged until his own hounds ran him down and tore him to bits," Mrs. Eilers said.

Undaunted, Mrs. Hall didn't budge an inch.

"Good art not only gives pleasure," Mrs. Hall said, "but it also stimulates an appreciation for the beautiful."

Not so, said Mrs. Eilers, who made her group's view known to the county supervisors.

The supervisors sided with Mrs. Hall, agreeing that Diana would give pleasure to visitors to the recently dedicated complex.

Mrs. Hall admits the tempest was something of an ordeal before it blew over.

"A hideous experience and one I don't want to go through again," she said. "They claimed Diana was a killer. Why, in Italy, Diana is known as a protectress and there is a festival each year in her name."

Test Driver Gives Tips on Road Safety

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A 27-year-old test driver who drives an average of 400 miles each work day and who has driven 500,000 miles on public roads without an accident says you may live longer if you don't trust the other driver.

Lowell Roseborough, who has test driven all types of cars during his five years with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. here, said Wednesday he thinks "defensive driving" has helped him complete his accident-free record.

He called defensive driving "an attitude of mind". He said it is the ability to avoid accidents in spite of poor driving conditions and wrong actions by other drivers.

Roseborough said he thinks impatience and inexperience at high-speed driving were partly responsible for Ohio's 36 traffic deaths over the July 4 weekend.

His safe-driving tips include:

- Use seat belts while driving.
- Don't tail gate or follow the car ahead too closely.
- Dim headlights when approaching an on-coming car or when a car passes.

Storms Subside In Great Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Storms tapered off today after hammering scattered sections in the Great Plains and from the Gulf Coast region to New England.

Violent thunderstorms raked many areas. A tornado hit Curriers, a farming community of 150 in western New York, damaging buildings and disrupting communications. Strong winds also damaged buildings, uprooted trees and cut power and telephone service in Chautauque County. No injuries were reported.

Heavy rain fell in some areas in the warm and humid air from the Virginias to the east and central Gulf Coast region.

New Confusion Is Cropping Up Around America's Gold Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — New confusion, compounded by seemingly contradictory government pronouncements, has grown up around the U.S. balance of payments and gold problems.

The confusion may have hit a high point a few days ago when:

- Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler indicated the voluntary program to trim the U.S. balance of payments deficit is working so well he is worried about overoptimism.
- The Federal Reserve announced the greatest weekly outflow of gold in six years, $359 million.

The statements were the latest zig-zags in the government's on-again, off-again enthusiasm about its efforts to preserve the United States' dwindling gold stock.

Here are some basic questions and answers on the current U.S. gold and balance of payments situations:

Q: What is the status of the U.S. gold stock now?

A: The U.S. monetary gold stock now is worth $13,934,000,000. It has declined $1,454,000,000 since Jan. 1. The outflow in six months of 1965 is exceeded only by the total yearly losses in 1958 and 1946. The present supply of gold is now back to the level it was in 1938 before the

2 Gunmen Free Kidnap Victims

WOODLAND, Calif. (AP) — Six kidnap victims were released unharmed here Wednesday night by two gunmen charged with killing an Oregon deputy sheriff and fleeing to California with the hostages.

Police said a massive man-hunt was under way in nearby Sacramento, where the gunmen released the three adults and three children — then fled on foot.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were questioning the freed hostages at a Woodland motel, but agents declined to divulge details of the day of terror.

Two of those released were Mrs. David Corbin, 33, and her son by a previous marriage, Clinton Clark, 12.

Mrs. Corbin and Clinton had been the objects of a wide search throughout western Oregon since they vanished Tuesday shortly after Deputy Sheriff Carlton E. Smith, 33, father of six children, was gunned down by a shotgun blast and six pistol bullets.

The other four hostages were Mr. and Mrs. Uldis Riekstins of Seattle, their son and a friend of their son.

In Springfield, Ore., Mrs. Corbin's hometown, police outlined this sequence of events:

Soon after Smith was killed, two gunmen invaded the nearby home of Mrs. Corbin. They forced her and her son to drive them into the Cascade Mountains east of Springfield.

Near Marion Forks, about 125 miles northeast of Springfield, her car became mired in the mud. The gunmen commandeered the camper truck of the Riekstins, and they evaded police patrols into California.

The gunmen fled the camper on foot in Sacramento, but the hostages continued to Woodland before Mrs. Corbin telephoned her Springfield home to inquire about the four children she had left behind.

An all-points bulletin had been broadcast earlier throughout the West for Wilbur Marion Grey, 30, a native of Brunswick, Ga., and Karl Cleses Bowles, 24, a native of Amarillo, Texas.

They completed terms at the Oregon prison only last week.

71 Lady Pilots, Poodle End Powder Puff Derby

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Weary officials and an over-worked computer looked forward to the celebrations today as the 19th annual Powder Puff Derby headed toward a grand finale.

Seventy-one planes, their female pilots and a white French poodle Wednesday completed the 2,400-mile air race from El Cajon, Calif., to Chattanooga. Locked in a tight race for the crown were a Florida investment broker and a seven-time Powder Puff champion from California.

The winner had been due to receive her trophy Wednesday night, but a large number of last-day arrivals caused officials to give up trying to figure the complicated handicap scores.

A computer will figure the winner on a complicated formula involving only actual flying time and the rated ability of the individual planes.

"I don't have a chance now," said June Douglas, manager of a Palm Beach, Fla., investment firm, after a disappointing final lap Wednesday. But Derby officials disagreed, saying she's still very much in the running.

Miss Douglas, who soloed, had been first in the standings, but lost time when she had to fly around rain and thunderstorms on her flight here from Savannah, Ga.

Neck and neck with Miss Douglas was Mrs. Frances Bera, a flight instructor from Long Beach, Calif. She's the most experienced flyer in the field, competing in the Derby 15 years and winning seven times.

Mrs. Bera and her co-pilot, Margaret A. Mead, also of Long Beach, completed the race Tuesday and missed the turbulent Georgia weather.

In all, of the 76 planes which began the race, 71 finished.

The French poodle, named "Candy," seemed none the worse for the cross-country trek with Mrs. Esther Phipps of Sacramento, Calif., and her daughter, Mrs. Judy Phipps Lagomarsino of Yuba City, Calif.

Solons Cautious On Call for New Merit Procedure

WASHINGTON (AP) — An effort by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to emphasize merit rather than seniority in military promotions got a cautious but generally favorable reception today among some key legislators.

"All of us subscribe to the general idea," said Rep. Porter Hardy Jr., D-Va., a high ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee. "You have to have promotion or you stifle talent in the lower ranks. Maybe he has got some good ideas. We need to know more about it."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, top Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said, "Of course we ought to make the military just as efficient and give it as good leadership as we can, but any great change in the system that has gone on over the years has to receive very careful consideration."

The bank had closed an hour earlier but the door was not locked.

Pruitt used manager Jim Pearce's telephone to call the police, then stood guard until officers and bank employees arrived.

Senate Shuns GOP Effort

Medicare OK Believed Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate started its second session of voting on the Social Security-health care bill today by turning back a Republican amendment to provide automatic Social Security increases tied to the cost of living.

Democratic leaders were pushing for final action on the measure today after disposing of 14 amendments Wednesday.

The amendment rejected by today's first vote, 64 to 21, was offered by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Ia. It would have called for a 3 per cent increase in benefits when the cost of living index rose by that amount.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen "I see no reason why we cannot finish this bill tonight unless its opponents want to string it out, and there is no good reason for them to do so."

However, two Republican senators announced they would offer a number of amendments to the bill, which is one of President Johnson's most important legislative proposals.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said he would propose at least three changes affecting the benefits in the present Social Security system.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., a strong foe of the new health care for the aged program in the bill, told a reporter he would make a sweeping recommittal motion to send the legislation back to the finance committee.

Under the Curtis motion, the committee would be directed to return the bill to the Senate by March 1 next year with a new health program patterned on the one now available to federal employees.

This would allow a choice of private insurance firms. Elderly persons with sufficient incomes would be required to pay the cost; there would be federal aid for the needy to pay premiums.

Long predicted the Republican amendments would be defeated easily.

The basic hospitalization plan in the bill would be available to the 19 million Americans 65 or older as a matter of right.

A voluntary supplemental plan, covering chiefly doctors fees, would be open to anyone over 65 who wishes to enroll and pay a $3 a month premium. The estimated $6.8 billion yearly cost of the program would be financed mainly through increased Social Security taxes.

Long said he was highly pleased with the progress Wednesday in the initial floor voting on the bill, when 14 amendments were disposed of.

As floor manager Long accepted 12 of these, which reduced the debate to a minimum. He persuaded a senator to withdraw an amendment and the other, a major change offered by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., was narrowly beaten 43 to 39.

The Ribicoff amendment would have written an unlimited hospitalization feature into the basic health plan for elderly people.

Johnson administration spokesmen argued it would overload the program at the outset and throw off all cost estimates.

Propulsion Lab Is Hit by Fire

SWANNANOVA, N.C. (AP) — Some 2,000 confused and excited persons were routed from bed and evacuated from a wide area in western North Carolina's mountains early today when fire at a jet fuel manufacturing plant threatened to touch off a stockpile of high explosives.

The fire burned itself out without causing an explosion and no injuries were reported.

Officials of the Amel Propulsion Laboratory, situated in the Swannanoa Valley about 12 miles east of Asheville, said the blaze, small at first, was discovered about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Sunny and warm today. Fair tonight. Fair and hot tomorrow. High yesterday, 85; low, 62. High today, 85-87. Low tonight, 60-62. High tomorrow, 85-88.

White Youths Accused in Harassment

EAST MEADOW, N.Y. (AP) — Five white teen-agers were arrested Wednesday night in connection with burning a six-foot cross and breaking two windows at the home of an interracial couple.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Wright, said that since they moved into the all-white neighborhood almost two years ago, they've been harassed by abusive telephone calls and vandalism, including damage to their car. Mrs. Wright, 24, is white, her husband, 31, is a Negro and a school principal.

Nassau County police said they arrested the youths separately. In their statements, authorities said, all denied that their acts had any racial overtones.

Police arrested Vincent Danton Jr., 17, Mark Sanko, 16, and a 15-year-old boy in connection with the burning cross. Seized and accused of taping a firecracker to a window of the Wrights' home were Clifford J. Snyder, 17, and James Kaylor, 19.

All but Kaylor are students at East Meadow High School, police said, adding that Kaylor is a construction laborer.

The amendment rejected by today's first vote, 64 to 21, was offered by Sen. Jack Miller, R-Ia. It would have called for a 3 per cent increase in benefits when the cost of living index rose by that amount.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the bill's floor manager, told newsmen "I see no reason why we cannot finish this bill tonight unless its opponents want to string it out, and there is no good reason for them to do so."

However, two Republican senators announced they would offer a number of amendments to the bill, which is one of President Johnson's most important legislative proposals.

Sen. Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., said he would propose at least three changes affecting the benefits in the present Social Security system.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., a strong foe of the new health care for the aged program in the bill, told a reporter he would make a sweeping recommitment motion to send the legislation back to the finance committee.

Under the Curtis motion, the committee would be directed to return the bill to the Senate by March 1 next year with a new health program patterned on the one now available to federal employees.

This would allow a choice of private insurance firms. Elderly persons with sufficient incomes would be required to pay the cost; there would be federal aid for the needy to pay premiums.

Long predicted the Republican amendments would be defeated easily.

The basic hospitalization plan in the bill would be available to the 19 million Americans 65 or older as a matter of right.

A voluntary supplemental plan, covering chiefly doctors fees, would be open to anyone over 65 who wishes to enroll and pay a $3 a month premium. The estimated $6.8 billion yearly cost of the program would be financed mainly through increased Social Security taxes.

Long said he was highly pleased with the progress Wednesday in the initial floor voting on the bill, when 14 amendments were disposed of. As floor manager Long accepted 12 of these, which reduced the debate to a minimum. He persuaded a senator to withdraw an amendment and the other, a major change offered by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., was narrowly beaten 43 to 39.

The Ribicoff amendment would have written an unlimited hospitalization feature into the basic health plan for elderly people.

Johnson administration spokesmen argued it would overload the program at the outset and throw off all cost estimates.

Propulsion Lab Is Hit by Fire

SWANNANOVA, N.C. (AP) — Some 2,000 confused and excited persons were routed from bed and evacuated from a wide area in western North Carolina's mountains early today when fire at a jet fuel manufacturing plant threatened to touch off a stockpile of high explosives.

The fire burned itself out without causing an explosion and no injuries were reported.

Officials of the Amel Propulsion Laboratory, situated in the Swannanoa Valley about 12 miles east of Asheville, said the blaze, small at first, was discovered about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Marine Buildup Said 'Insurance'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The landing of 8,000 more Marines in South Viet Nam was a move to "play it safe" and strengthen U.S. forces against a possible major thrust by bearded Communist troops, military sources said today.

The action was not prompted by any specific emergency situation, the sources said.

Intensive Communist activity in the central highlands of Viet Nam, coupled with indications that the equivalent of a North Vietnamese army division may be spread through the area, has caused concern.

If the Reds should mount an assault with seven to 10 battalions against one of the U.S. enclaves along the South China Sea coast, the sources said, they might cause considerable havoc.

It was learned that Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the top U.S. commander in Viet Nam, asked for the additional Marines from Okinawa because they could be brought in quickly. He said Wednesday that more "substantial confrontations" could be expected before long.

More Army troops are on their way to Viet Nam from the United States but are not due for a while yet.

Both military and civilian officials pointed to Westmoreland's current visit to Hawaii as an indicator that no imminent crisis is expected in Viet Nam.

They claimed there is no hidden significance to the general's trip — that it is mainly for the rest and a few days with his family in Honolulu.

As the U.S. buildup in Viet Nam continued, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said Wednesday the United States should bomb Soviet-built missile sites in North Viet Nam.

Storekeeper Fined In Liquor Hearing Told Throw Party

SUVA, Fiji (AP) — Ram Shankar, 46, a shopkeeper, was fined 80 pounds ($224) today and told to throw a party.

Shankar was charged with having liquor in his possession in excess of personal requirements. Police seized 184 bottles of beer and 44 bottles of spirits in a raid on his premises.

Shankar told the court he planned to hold a party for 30 people.

The magistrate said he could keep 90 bottles of beer and eight bottles of spirits.

"This is on the basis that you are going to hold a party for 30 people," the magistrate said.

"If you retain the liquor and do not give a party, it is still in excess of your own personal requirements. It is up to you to give a party."

Hotfoot Is Given Circus Elephants

CONCORD, Mass. (AP) — A blaze flared up Wednesday in the wheel bearings and tires of a truck containing four elephants of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Bros. Circus.

While firemen battled flames, the truck's metal floor got hot and the pachyderms began to dance.

After the fire was doused, workers opened the cages and freed the elephants.

Dixiecrats Eye GOP Rights Bill

Virginian Urges Republican Nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern Democrats hold the key today for House Republicans who want to substitute their voting rights bill for the administration's.

If enough Southerners heed the advice of some of their leaders to vote for the GOP substitute — which they consider a lesser evil — it could be a nip-and-tuck vote, possibly late today.

House leaders think they have the votes to turn back the GOP challenge. They put the maximum strength of the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition at 200, short of the 218 majority needed. That would include about 70 Southern Democrats.

An unknown factor, however, is the impact of a speech Wednesday by Rep. William M. Tucker, D-Va., an ardent foe of any federal voting legislation. He pleaded with Southerners to support the Republican bill, which is cosponsored by House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford and Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio.

Tucker, a former governor of Virginia, said the Ford-McCulloch bill was "relatively moderate" compared to the administration bill sponsored by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

The major difference between the two bills is that the GOP bill would apply in any locality, but only after 25 persons have complained they were denied the right to vote. The Celler bill would take effect automatically in seven Southern states where less than 50 per cent of the adult population voted or was registered in the last election.

Both bills, with their different approaches, would provide federal examiners to register qualified Negroes.

The administration bill also would abolish literacy tests for voting in seven Southern states — Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

'Free Speech' Campaign Killed by OSU Trustees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University trustees refused today to abandon the school's controversial speaker's rule.

Trustees by a 5-3 vote turned down a recommendation by President Novice G. Fawcett to liberalize the rule. Fawcett's recommendation was similar to one made May 27 by a faculty committee which would allow speakers of all political persuasions—including Communist—to speak on campus.

Fawcett, in a statement preceding the vote, said: "This university must be no less free than others."

Former Ohio Gov. and U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker led the opposition. Bricker said that Communists have "no right to speak at a tax-supported institution or a state university."

The rule has been infrequently invoked and often criticized by students.

"It's an outrage," said Jeffrey Schwartz, head of the Free Speech Front which staged frequent demonstrations this spring. "The board of trustees has repudiated the students, the faculty, the administration, everybody."

Asked if this would bring on new demonstrations next fall, Schwartz snapped: "I don't know if it will be that long."

Schwartz, an honor student, was graduated in June.

Fawcett told the board he felt 75 per cent of the students and faculty at the 30,000-student university wanted to change the rule. A student poll reported this week more than 80 per cent of the students questioned favored a rule change.

There had been expectations the board might grant some liberalization of the rule.

Trustee Stanley C. Allen of Dayton moved to adopt the resolution to change the rule. Jacob E. Davis of Cincinnati seconded. Those two, with Board Chairman Allen B. Loop of Toledo, cast the only affirmative votes.

Joining Bricker in opposition were Carlton S. Dargusch, Columbus; John G. Ketterer, Canton; Mervin B. France, Cleveland; and Frederick E. Jones, Columbus.

James W. Shocknessy, Ohio Turnpike Commission chairman newly-appointed to the board, did not attend. His appointment has not been confirmed by the Senate.

House Trailer Wrecked, Motorist Fined in Court

John D. Fyffe, Ashville, involved in an accident 7:50 p. m. yesterday on Route 56 west of Circleville, was handed a pair of fines totaling $75 by Municipal Court Judge Sterling M. Lamb.

Fyffe entered pleas of guilty to charges of reckless operation and pulling a 33-foot house trailer that had no license.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, who investigated the mishap, said Fyffe applied his brakes and lost control of the pickup truck he was driving.

The trailer and the truck both were extensively damaged.

Fyffe was treated for abrasions and contusions at Berger Hospital.

In other court action yesterday, Theodore K. Wolfe, 33, of 137 E. High St., was fined $250 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in the county jail for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

Judge Lamb suspended 87 days of the sentence and $100 of the fine and placed Wolfe on probation for three years. The driver entered a plea of innocent to the charges.

Other motorists listed on the court docket were: Cora Belle Hardin, 40, Kenova, W. Va., and Amos Johnson, 36, Chillicothe; $19 bond forfeiture for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Robert Isaac, 26, Waverly; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Marshall Hensley, 22, Williamsport, W. Va., and Albert L. Lang Jr., 25, Columbus; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Jerry Harris, 21, Route 3; $30 and costs for reckless operation.

Flooded-out Town Gets New Church

KLAMATH, Calif. (AP) — This tiny logging town, wiped out in northern California's $300 million flood last Christmas week, today has its first rebuilt church — the work of volunteer strangers from 300 miles away.

The church, the Calvary Temple of the Assembly of God, was built in a week of 17-hour days by a handful of unpaid volunteers from a sister Assembly of God congregation at Oakland, Calif.

Painting will be completed this week.

This time the church was constructed on high ground, in a quiet Redwood grove where the pastor's wife hopes to face nothing worse than an occasional friendly bear.

The site is three miles from where only bare concrete slabs attest to the location of the previous church, swept away with Klamath's three-block downtown sector and scores of homes by the Klamath River, gorged by unceasing rains and mountain runoff.

No deaths were reported in the 1,000-population community but only four buildings are left downtown — a gas station, restaurant, bait shop and market.

The pastor of the new church, Rev. Jack Inness, said that he and his wife Betty and their children Thelma, 13, Daniel, 11, and Cheleste, 9, escaped with their lives "and nothing else."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices moved in a narrow range in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of key issues were mostly fractional.

Trading was sluggish for the third straight day. In the first hour, only 780,000 shares crossed the ticker tape, compared with 820,000 Wednesday, when the day's total of 3.03 million was the lowest since Aug. 2, 1963.

Information Of Interest To Veterans

(Veterans and their dependents who may have any questions concerning any benefits from the Veterans Administration should bring their questions to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. His office is located in the basement of the County Court House.)

Many veterans, said Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer, James P. Shea, will be shocked at a recent survey conducted by the Veterans Administration.

The VA conducted this survey when it chose a representative sample of GI insurance policyholders and mailed them microfilm copies of the names of the beneficiaries listed as part of their policy records.

The VA asked the veterans: Is this list correct for your situation today? And, Shea continued, of those who replied, 49 per cent said, "no" and one-third changed the principal beneficiary as a result of the VA's inquiry.

This brings up a question for all veterans who are carrying their Government Life Insurance — "is your beneficiary up to date?"

If you are not certain, Shea concluded, or if you want to change your beneficiaries in any way, contact the local office in the basement of the county courthouse.

Family of 7 Stages Sit-in For Welfare

CLEVELAND (AP)—The unemployed father of a Newark, N. J., family of seven who staged a "welfare sit-in" was to try to work out a solution to his family's problems today with welfare officials.

John Vespucci, 38, his wife and five small children sat on a bench outside the Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) prosecutor's office Wednesday for nine hours.

Vespucci vowed to remain until the county welfare department assisted his family, despite regulations that a year's residence is required before the family can qualify for assistance.

At the end of the day, however, he accepted an offer from welfare authorities to spend the night with his family at the Salvation Army, with the welfare department paying the bill.

The Vespucci family arrived in Cleveland last October, Vespucci said, after being forced out of a Newark housing inspector's job for "political reasons." He worked for a Cleveland rug cleaning firm until last February, when he injured his back.

The Vespuccis were sent back to Newark at county welfare expense after he lost his job here. They returned Wednesday in Vespucci's badly-worn car, without money or a home.

"I'm a human being," Vespucci told newsmen at the criminal courts building. "The welfare people can't treat us like animals."

Partisan bickering sent down to defeat an omnibus bill to establish municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, and Vermilion and to expand the jurisdiction of municipal courts in Canton, Massillon, Cincinnati, Miami, Massillon, Port Clinton, and Sandusky.

Senators indicated the measure would not be reconsidered but they hinted it could be combined with a similar bill for additional Common Pleas Court judges. It was defeated last week by the House in a floor fight over amendments.

Young Traffic Violators Are Solons' Target

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Youthful traffic law violators were the targets of measures up for final legislative approval today in the Ohio Senate.

One of the House-passed bills would require license suspensions for drag racing, reckless operation, drunken driving, or leaving the scene of an accident, and the other spells out stiff penalties for the theft of autos or auto parts.

House members scheduled votes today on a pair of bills implementing the industrial financing program approved by voters in the May 4 primary.

Under one of the measures, the state could make loans up to 50 per cent for construction or expansion of industries.

Two major bills cleared the Senate Wednesday in one of the busiest floor sessions of the year. They were House - approved measures to license and regulate nursing homes and to modernize Ohio's tuberculosis program.

Partisan bickering sent down to defeat an omnibus bill to establish municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, and Vermilion and to expand the jurisdiction of municipal courts in Canton, Massillon, Cincinnati, Miami, Massillon, Port Clinton, and Sandusky.

Senators indicated the measure would not be reconsidered but they hinted it could be combined with a similar bill for additional Common Pleas Court judges. It was defeated last week by the House in a floor fight over amendments.

Causing defeat of the municipal court bill were a Republican amendment to establish a court in Bowling Green and an effort by Democrats to delay expansion of the Cincinnati court's jurisdiction until June 1967.

Sen. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R - Montgomery, was among sponsors of the tuberculosis bill which he said resulted from decreasing numbers of TB patients in Ohio. The bill, which now goes to the governor, would permit consolidation of the state's 20 partially filled institutions into about a dozen regional hospitals.

Other Senate - passed bills would convey land at Massillon State Hospital for relocation of Ohio 30 and permit counties to spend certain funds for planning.

Across the Statehouse, two bills went down to defeat. Both of them involved new tax proposals. Rep. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-Hamilton, would have permitted counties to submit income tax proposals to voters. His bill was rejected 54-74.

The second measure, sponsored by Rep. Michael A. Sweeney, D-Cuyahoga, and others would have permitted counties and municipalities to levy a supplemental tax on state auto license plates. It lost 46-74.

The House completed passage of bills allowing Allen County commissioners to build a road through the Ohio State branch campus at Lima and to provide highways for state-supported educational institutions.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd said today the United States is making a tragic mistake in resuming surplus food shipments to Egypt without demanding a halt to what Dodd called President Gamal Abdel Nasser's anti-Jewish hate campaign.

Dodd, who helped prosecute Nazi war criminals at Nuremberg, said in a speech prepared for delivery in the Senate that the Egyptian propaganda campaign against the Jews is the most malevolent since the Hitler years.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George E. Reedy, President Johnson's press secretary, announced today he is suffering from a painful foot disease and is bowing out of his White House post—at least for some months.

Reedy reported that doctors tell him he may face a series of operations that could sideline him for at least six months.

He said the duties of press secretary will be performed in his absence by Bill D. Moyers, one of Johnson's top special assistants.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George E. Reedy, President Johnson's press secretary, announced today he is suffering from a painful foot disease and is bowing out of his White House post—at least for some months.

Stiff Fines Meted Out To Rioters

GENEVA, Ohio (AP) — Stiff fines and a stern lecture marked the court session involving 29 persons arrested in connection with holiday rioting at nearby Geneva-on-the-Lake early Sunday.

Judge Howard T. Warner of Western Ashtabula County Court received 21 pleas of guilty or no contest at the session Wednesday. The other eight persons pleaded innocent and will be tried at a later date.

Fines ranged from $15 and costs to $100 and costs on charges of disorderly conduct or malicious destruction of property. One man, Wilbur E. Bliss, 30, of Ashtabula, was fined $150 and costs on both charges and received a 10-day jail sentence.

Thirteen were fined $50 and costs for disorderly conduct. Five were fined $25 and costs for the same charge.

More than 300 persons were arrested over the holiday weekend.

Judge Warner said he thought most of college-age persons he had seen in the courtroom "have no respect for the law and law officers."

Edward G. Kemeraut, Geneva-on-the-Lake police chief, said one of the defendants told him after the hearing: "That was the best $50 worth of fun I ever had. See you next year."

TROY, Ohio (AP)—The Miami County Sheriff's Department said today the fatal shooting of Gloria Ann Riffle, 26, at her home near Laura Wednesday apparently was an accident.

Miss Riffle was found lying on the ground in the yard of her home with a bullet wound in the head. She died several hours later in Good Samaritan Hospital in Dayton.

'Free Speech' Campaign Killed by OSU Trustees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University trustees refused today to abandon the school's controversial speaker's rule.

Trustees by a 5-3 vote turned down a recommendation by President Novice G. Fawcett to liberalize the rule. Fawcett's recommendation was similar to one made May 27 by a faculty committee which would allow speakers of all political persuasions—including Communists—to speak on campus.

Fawcett, in a statement preceding the vote, said: "This university must be no less free than others."

Former Ohio Gov. and U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker led the opposition. Bricker said that Communists have "no right to speak at a tax-supported institution or a state university."

The rule has been infrequently invoked and often criticized by students.

"It's an outrage," said Jeffrey Schwartz, head of the Free Speech Front which staged frequent demonstrations this spring. "The board of trustees has repudiated the students, the faculty, the administration, everybody."

Asked if this would bring on new demonstrations next fall, Schwartz snapped: "I don't know if it will be that long."

Schwartz, an honor student, was graduated in June. Fawcett told the board he felt 75 per cent of the students and faculty at the 30,000-student university wanted to change the rule. A student poll reported this week more than 80 per cent of the students questioned favored a rule change.

There had been expectations the board might grant some liberalization of the rule.

Trustee Stanley C. Allen of Dayton moved to adopt the resolution to change the rule. Jacob E. Davis of Cincinnati seconded. Those two, with Board Chairman Allen B. Loop of Toledo, cast the only affirmative votes.

Joining Bricker in opposition were Carlton S. Dargusch, Columbus; John G. Ketterer, Canton; Mervin B. France, Cleveland; and Frederick E. Jones, Columbus.

James W. Shocknessy, Ohio Turnpike Commission chairman newly-appointed to the board, did not attend. His appointment has not been confirmed by the Senate.

Mr. John C. Buchanan, 80, Waverly, died 11:35 p. m. yesterday in Berger Hospital of an apparent heart attack.

Flooded-out Town Gets New Church

KLAMATH, Calif. (AP) — This tiny logging town, wiped out in northern California's $300 million flood last Christmas week, today has its first rebuilt church — the work of volunteer strangers from 300 miles away.

The church, the Calvary Temple of the Assembly of God, was built in a week of 17-hour days by a handful of unpaid volunteers from a sister Assembly of God congregation at Oakland, Calif.

Painting will be completed this week.

This time the church was constructed on high ground, in a quiet Redwood grove where the pastor's wife hopes to face nothing worse than an occasional friendly bear.

The site is three miles from where only bare concrete slabs attest to the location of the previous church, swept away with Klamath's three-block downtown sector and scores of homes by the Klamath River, gorged by unceasing rains and mountain runoff.

No deaths were reported in the 1,000-population community but only four buildings are left downtown — a gas station, restaurant, bait shop and market.

The pastor of the new church, the Rev. Jack Iness, said that he and his wife Betty and their children Thelma, 13, Daniel, 11, and Celeste, 9, escaped with their lives "and nothing else."

Stock Mart Trading Quiet

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices moved in a narrow range in quiet trading early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of key issues were mostly fractional.

Trading was sluggish for the third straight day. In the first hour, only 780,000 shares crossed the ticker tape, compared with 820,000 Wednesday, when the day's total of 3.03 million was the lowest since Aug. 2, 1963.

The market had no new developments to stimulate it and was following the pattern which has prevailed the last two days, when moderate losses were registered.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was ahead a minimal .1 at 320.1 with industrials off .1, rails unchanged and utilities up .3.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 0.93 at 869.84.

$5 Million Suit Filed Against Army by Clerk

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — James P. Speights of Raleigh is suing the government for $5 million, claiming clerical duties in the Army ruined his eyes.

In a suit filed in federal court, he blames the Army for his "inability to read at length or to view TV or motion pictures without discomfort (which) has disturbed me emotionally."

The suit said Speights began having eye trouble in January 1963, after working as clerk for four months. He said his efforts to be transferred were fruitless. "Finally," the suit adds, "because of my eye condition, I was given a medical discharge . . . saying I had had a nervous breakdown."

Family of 7 Stages Sit-in For Welfare

CLEVELAND (AP)—The unemployed father of a Newark, N. J., family of seven who staged a "welfare sit-in" was to try to work out a solution to his family's problems today with welfare officials.

John Vespucci, 38, his wife and five small children sat on a bench outside the Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) prosecutor's office Wednesday for nine hours.

Vespucci vowed to remain until the county welfare department assisted his family, despite regulations that a year's residence is required before the family can qualify for assistance.

At the end of the day, however, he accepted an offer from welfare authorities to spend the night with his family at the Salvation Army, with the welfare department paying the bill.

The Vespucci family arrived in Cleveland last October, Vespucci said, after being forced out of a Newark housing inspector's job for "political reasons." He worked for a Cleveland rug cleaning firm until last February, when he injured his back.

The Vespuccis were sent back to Newark at county welfare expense after he lost his job here. They returned Wednesday in Vespucci's badly worn car, without money or a home.

"I'm a human being," Vespucci told newsmen at the criminal courts building. "The welfare people can't treat us like animals."

The owner valued the equipment at $65.

Young Traffic Violators Are Solons' Target

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Youthful traffic law violators were the targets of measures up for final legislative approval today in the Ohio Senate.

One of the House-passed bills would require license suspensions for drag racing, reckless operation, drunken driving, or leaving the scene of an accident, and the other spells out stiff penalties for the theft of autos or auto parts.

House members scheduled votes today on a pair of bills implementing the industrial financing program approved by voters in the May 4 primary. Under one of the measures, the state could make loans up to 50 per cent for construction or expansion of industries.

Two major bills cleared the Senate Wednesday in one of the busiest floor sessions of the year. They were House-approved measures to license and regulate nursing homes and to modernize Ohio's tuberculosis program.

Partisan bickering sent down to defeat an omnibus bill to establish municipal courts in Fremont, Mason, and Vermilion and to expand the jurisdiction of municipal courts in Canton, Massillon, Cincinnati, Miami, Port Clinton, and Sandusky.

Senators indicated the measure would not be reconsidered but they hinted it could be combined with a similar bill for additional Common Pleas Court judges. It was defeated last week by the House in a floor fight over amendments.

Causing defeat of the municipal court bill were a Republican amendment to establish a court in Bowling Green and an effort by Democrats to delay expansion of the Cincinnati court's jurisdiction until June 1967.

Sen. Charles W. Whalen Jr., R - Montgomery, was among sponsors of the tuberculosis bill which he said resulted from decreasing numbers of TB patients in Ohio. The bill, which now goes to the governor, would permit consolidation of the state's 20 partially filled institutions into about a dozen regional hospitals.

Other Senate-passed bills would convey land at Massillon State Hospital for relocation of Ohio 30 and permit counties to spend certain funds for planning.

Across the Statehouse, two bills went down to defeat. Both of them involved new tax proposals. Rep. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-Hamilton, would have permitted counties to submit income tax proposals to voters. His bill was rejected 54-74.

The second measure, sponsored by Rep. Michael A. Sweeney, D-Cuyahoga, and others would have permitted counties and municipalities to levy a supplemental tax on state auto license plates. It lost 46-74.

The House completed passage of bills allowing Allen County commissioners to build a road through the Ohio State branch campus at Lima and to provide highways for state-supported educational institutions.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The war in Viet Nam is moving toward an explosion. All the signs point to it.

U.S. forces are building up. Viet Cong guerrillas are stepping up raids and attacks. The American commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, says more "substantial confrontations" may be expected.

That's a complicated way of saying much bigger ground fighting is in store.

Westmoreland also says the Viet Cong "are less confident of success than they were earlier."

U.S. intelligence sources believe North Viet Nam's 325th Division, starting early this year, has moved into South Viet Nam to join the Viet Cong in the fighting.

Uruguay Plans To Pawn Gold, Secure Loans

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — This little cattle and wool country, just one step ahead of the bill collector, is pawning the family gold to get a breathing spell.

Uruguay will send about $80 million in gold bars abroad. With this bait, it will try to get loans from private banks totaling about $110 million.

It's a big blow to the national pride. For 30 years Uruguay has prided itself on being, in certain measure, the South American banker because it had such a stable economy.

Now that's history. Uruguayan social welfare programs, among the most elaborate in the world, are not the only items contributing to the malaise along the River Plate, but they are the biggest.

An Uruguayan worker 50 years old with 30 years of work behind him can retire on full pay. An employee of a bank who has 10 years employment with that institution isn't out of a job if the bank goes broke. He retires on full pay for the rest of his life.

Behind the scenes, many economists are fairly optimistic. But the country has $171 million in assets and $330-350 million in debts. It needs help fast.

At first blush things look worse than they are. The 1964 national budget was for $109 million of which half represented a deficit.

Fortunately, spending doesn't reach the imaginative peaks of the budget makers, who load the budget with pet projects of various officials. Spending runs about 10 per cent behind income.

Most of the loans Uruguayan leaders hope to get from the banks will go to pay for past and future imports, with some for servicing the national debt.

The only way Uruguay can come up with the cash is by selling wool and meat.

Meat, the other major Uruguayan export, is in short domestic supply just from the attempt to export as much as possible.

Cleveland Strikers To Return to Jobs

CLEVELAND (AP) — More than 500 workmen in eight craft unions were to return to their jobs today at Cleveland's new $32 million federal building.

They walked off the construction site Tuesday because of what they said were unsatisfactory working conditions. Vernon Wheelock, project engineer for the General Services Administration, said Wednesday night that union business agents had inspected various safety improvements, it was decided that the workmen would return.

builds up its ground forces, it gets deeper into the war in the air.

Three times now American B52 bombers have flown the 2,200 miles from Guam to bomb Viet Cong locations in South Viet Nam, some within 35 miles of Saigon.

At the same time American bombers continued to plaster North Viet Nam, although staying away from such population centers as the capital city of Hanoi and the seaport, Haiphong.

While President Johnson was pondering all this, he learned of more unpleasant news which sooner or later may require a decision from him.

Several Russian-built missile sites are nearing completion in North Viet Nam near Hanoi and Haiphong. These are for surface to air missiles which can be used against bombers.

It's possible they will never be used, unless the United States attacks those two cities.

But their very presence, and the danger implicit in them, raises the question: Should the United States wipe out those missile sites before they can be used against American planes?

But that might involve the United States with Russia, more or less.

Johnson has to make the decision to bomb or lay off. But Wednesday in Congress the House Republican leader, Gerald R. Ford, said the United States should bomb the missile bases before they're ready for use.

Car License, Gas Monies Distributed

Local governments in Ohio

divided $150,108,960 in gasoline and auto license revenues during fiscal 1965 according to a report from the office of Chester W. Goble, state auditor.

Each county in the state received $260,000 of the gas tax monies and each county also received $48,797, which was from a 5 per cent equalization fund.

Aside from the $260,000 distributed to each county, municipalities in Pickaway County received a total of $72,371 and the combined townships $138,000.

In addition to the 5 per cent equalization money, the counties and registration districts received $248,544.

Another distribution was made which gave the counties a 9 per cent share based upon the ration of county highways to the state wide total and to the townships a 5 per cent share based upon the ration of township roads to the state wide total of township roads.

Under this distribution, Pickaway County received $58,572 for county highways and the townships a total of $44,397 for the township roads.

'Reactor Farm' Yields Nuclear Pay-Dirt

NATIONAL REACTOR TESTING STATION, Idaho (AP)—Three new and potentially revolutionary atomic age developments are progressing well at Uncle Sam's "reactor farm" where scientific and engineering breakthroughs are almost old hat.

Here, on an isolated, 900-square-mile area of sagebrush and basalt fields on the Snake River plains, Atomic Energy Commission scientists believe they've struck new kinds of nuclear pay-dirt with these developments:

—Achievement of "the country's first major breakthrough" in treating potentially deadly radioactive wastes from atomic power and research reactors — the so-called "garbage" of the atomic era. The process, which reduces the dangerous liquid wastes to a much safer form having only one-tenth the volume previously stored, uses equipment which works something like a popcorn machine.

—Promising results with a new type of experimental "breeder" reactor system — actually, a kind of controlled atomic bomb. Like other experimental breeders, it is designed to create more nuclear fuel than it actually consumes in producing power. But its unique feature consists of a built-in process for cleaning up and recycling partly used fuel. It dishes the fuel back into the furnace almost like loaves of bread.

—Near-completion for military field use of compact, mobile nuclear power reactors which can be flown intact in a cargo airplane to any corner of the world — ready to begin generating power for field hospitals, radar equipment and other uses, within 12 hours after arrival.

Those are among the most exciting new ventures at this $500-million station — site of the world's largest and most varied collection of nuclear reactors, or "furnaces," for research, testing, electric power production, and propulsion. The area — in southeastern Idaho, 30 miles from Idaho Falls — is three-fourths the size of the State of Rhode Island.

None of the reactor structures, operational or otherwise, would rate any beauty prizes. From the outside, most of them are huge, boxlike affairs which look like warehouses.

But they house some of the world's most ingenious and hidden, heavily shielded pots of controlled nuclear fury — designed to help produce more powerful, safer and more efficient civilian and military reactors of the future.

And, some of them are devices which, since 1951, already have achieved these "firsts" in the atomic race: —Proof-testing the feasibility of nuclear propulsion for both submarines and surface ships — thus paving the way for the United States' present nuclear fleet of 51 submarines, the aircraft carrier Enterprise and several other surface warships.

—Production of the world's first useable quantities of electricity from the atom — including the test-lighting of the city of Arco, seven miles from the site.

—Powering of a turbojet engine exclusively from nuclear heat.

And engineers here say that one of their reactors — called the "materials testing reactor" (MTR) — has played a vital role in aiding the development of every nuclear power reactor in the world, "including those of the Russians." This is because virtually all results achieved at the station are published in scientific and popular literature.

The AEC says more than 1½ million American homes now are powered by atom-produced electricity — and forecasts that at least seven million will be so powered by 1980.

The only secret, closed-off area of the "reactor farm" here is one housing reactors developed or still under development by the Navy in cooperation with the AEC.

Up until around 1958, reporters sometimes were allowed in, but the unofficial word is that Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, who heads the program for the Navy, put the curtain down after making a trip to the Soviet Union — and reportedly finding the Russians were not as far advanced in the maritime nu-

Uruguay Plans To Pawn Gold, Secure Loans

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — This little cattle and wool country, just one step ahead of the bill collector, is pawning the family gold to get a breathing spell.

Malcolm W. Browne of The Associated Press reports from Saigon that for the past few weeks guerrilla forces of unprecedented strength have burst across the Vietnamese highlands, smashing one important post after another.

Recently, he says, thousands of South Vietnamese government forces have been killed or captured.

The more the South Vietnamese are smashed, the more U.S. forces must get involved to bail them out.

Only last week guerrillas slipped through the heavy Marine guard surrounding the Da Nang Air Base, killed one American and destroyed three U.S. planes on the ground.

And last Monday they overran the jungle outpost of Ba Gia and made off with two 104mm howitzers, the largest weapons they've captured yet, plus ammunition which, with the howitzers, may be used against Americans later.

Still, there has been no big showdown yet between the Marines and the Viet Cong or the 325th Division from North Viet Nam.

But more U.S. troops — about 8,000 Marines — are being put ashore South Viet Nam, raising American military strength there to about 60,000 men.

These don't include another 16,000 to 21,000 Marines and Army troops who, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in mid-June, were being sent to Viet Nam.

Municipal Court Clerk Completes Monthly Report

Circleville Municipal Court listed an income of $9,852.40 during June from fines costs and bond forfeitures.

The monthly report, compiled by Naomi Houghton, court clerk, showed the city received $5,944.79 of the total income.

Pickaway County received $1,923.79 of the money while the state treasurer received $1,875.52. Miscellaneous disbursements accounted for the remainder.

There were 405 criminal cases filed during June and 373 were disposed.

In addition to the criminal docket, there were 17 civil cases filed. The court report listed seven completed.

None of the reactor structures, operational or otherwise, would rate any beauty prizes. From the outside, most of them are huge, boxlike affairs which look like warehouses.

But they house some of the world's most ingenious and complicated machinery and hidden, heavily shielded pots of controlled nuclear fury — designed to help produce more powerful, safer and more efficient civilian and military reactors of the future.

And, some of them are devices which, since 1951, already have achieved these "firsts" in the atomic race:

—Proof-testing the feasibility of nuclear propulsion for both submarines and surface ships—thus paving the way for the United States' present nuclear fleet of 51 submarines, the aircraft carrier Enterprise and several other surface warships

—Production of the world's first useable quantities of electricity from the atom — including the test-lighting of the city of Arco, seven miles from the site.

—Powering of a turbojet engine exclusively from nuclear heat.

And engineers here say that one of their reactors — called the "materials testing reactor" (MTR) — has played a vital role in aiding the development of every nuclear power reactor in the world, "including those of the Russians." This is because virtually all results achieved at the station are published in scientific and popular literature.

The AEC says more than 1½ million American homes now are powered by atom-produced electricity — and forecasts that at least seven million will be so powered by 1980.

The only secret, closed-off area of the "reactor farm" here is one housing reactors developed or still under development by the Navy in cooperation with the AEC.

Up until around 1958, reporters sometimes were allowed in, but the unofficial word is that Vice Adm. Hyman Rickover, who heads the program for the Navy, put the curtain down after making a trip to the Soviet Union — and reportedly finding the Russians were not as far advanced in the maritime nuclear propulsion field as had previously been thought.

But, still in view from beyond the guarded fence is the reactor structure housing the still-operating prototype of the pioneer nuclear submarine Nautilus.

Close by the Nautilus prototype in the Navy's sagebrush port is the "large ship reactor" which paved the way for the carrier Enterprise and other surface craft.

And, still under construction, is a new type of naval propulsion reactor. The latter is designed to be quieter, simpler and even safer to operate than present models. The test version will even be designed to simulate the pitching motions a reactor would experience at sea.

Malcolm W. Browne of The Associated Press reports from Saigon that for the past few weeks guerrilla forces of unprecedented strength have burst across the Vietnamese highlands, smashing one important post after another.

Recently, he says, thousands of South Vietnamese government forces have been killed or captured.

The more the South Vietnamese are smashed, the more U.S. forces must get involved to bail them out.

Only last week guerrillas slipped through the heavy Marine guard surrounding the Da Nang Air Base, killed one American and destroyed three U.S. planes on the ground.

And last Monday they overran the jungle outpost of Ba Gia and made off with two 104mm howitzers, the largest weapons they've captured yet, plus ammunition which, with the howitzers, may be used against Americans later.

Still, there has been no big showdown yet between the Marines and the Viet Cong or the 325th Division from North Viet Nam.

But more U.S. troops — about 8,000 Marines — are being put ashore South Viet Nam, raising American military strength there to about 60,000 men.

These don't include another 16,000 to 21,000 Marines and Army troops who, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said in mid-June, were being sent to Viet Nam.

And, while the United States

divided $150,108,960 in gasoline and auto license revenues during fiscal 1965 according to a report from the office of Chester W. Goble, state auditor.

Each county in the state received $260,000 of the gas tax monies and each county also received $48,797, which was from a 5 per cent equalization fund.

Aside from the $260,000 distributed to each county, municipalities in Pickaway County received a total of $72,371 and the combined townships $138,000.

In addition to the 5 per cent equalization money, the counties and registration districts received $248,544.

Another distribution was made which gave the counties a 9 per cent share based upon the ration of county highways to the state wide total and to the townships a 5 per cent share based upon the ration of township roads to the state wide total of township roads.

Under this distribution, Pickaway County received $58,572 for county highways and the townships a total of $44,397 for the township roads.

Those are among the most exciting new ventures at this $500-million station — site of the world's largest and most varied collection of nuclear reactors, or "furnaces," for research, testing, electric power production, and propulsion. The area — in southeastern Idaho, 30 miles from Idaho Falls — is three-fourths the size of the State of Rhode Island.

None of the reactor structures, operational or otherwise, would rate any beauty prizes. From the outside, most of them are huge, boxlike affairs which look like warehouses.

Dandelion Threat

A Kansas chemist who is testing the dandelion for its waxes, is quoted as believing the weed might some day become so commercially useful it would be cultivated and sold, like wheat or corn. Here is a strange turn of circumstances that at first glance will set the nation to rejoicing.

Even the most fumble-thumbed gardener is a successful dandelion grower. If the liability should become an asset, and dandelions could be sold, everyone might become rich. But think of the ramifications.

There are frightening surpluses of some of our least hardy plants, like wheat, which grow only with the most clever and tender care. Contemplate what surpluses there would be in the dandelion crop! Soon thousands of new dandelion storage facilities would be overflowing; the government would be offering bonuses for not growing dandelions, and how in the world would anyone stop the things from growing?

The whole dandelion program is destined to become one vast economic headache. Neither the nation nor the world is ready to cope with a commercially-valuable dandelion. If the Kansas professor has any consideration for his fellow human beings, he will abandon this dandelion research immediately.

"We finally got the car in the garage—but we had to make two trips!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

When I read your article about pain in the calves of the leg I felt that you were describing my condition. I can't walk for more than a minute without pain in my leg and can't follow my favorite hobby of hunting. I am 55 years old. I had a coronary heart attack 11 years ago. I don't drink. I smoke one pack of cigarettes a day. I was told to stop smoking. I would quit smoking if I were sure it would help cure this condition.

Mr. R. W. G. Maine

Dear Mr. G: The guarantee that you seek by underscoring "sure" is unreasonable.

Let us review the medical story you tell. Having had a coronary heart attack at the age of 44 with complete recovery is an excellent indication of your "heart reserve." Now, at the age of 55 you complain of pain and cramps in the calves of the legs while walking. This medical history suggests the possibility of some circulatory condition of your blood vessels that interferes with the blood supply to the legs.

There are many tests that indicate the amount of blood that flows through the arteries of the leg. An instrument, the oscillometer, can measure the pulsation of the arteries in the foot and leg. Sensitive temperature readings of the skin of the feet can also indicate the state of the blood supply.

Now, about the daily pack of cigarettes you smoke and the sure cure guarantee that would make you give them up.

There are few medical conditions that are so definitely made worse by cigarette tobacco than disturbances of the blood supply to the heart and legs.

Can you honestly say that your physician did not insist that you stop smoking after your heart attack 11 years ago? Ask him again, especially in the light of your leg cramps.

Undoubtedly, you will be emphatically told to stop smoking. Unfortunately, there are no guarantees in the treatment for any medical condition. For all people react in their own way to drugs and treatment.

Doctors can predict many things based on their experience, but they never can guarantee the exact outcome of their treatment.

There is certainly sound medical reasoning to suggest that you will benefit by discontinuing tobacco. I can tell you that the possibility is good enough to make it worth a try.

Once again, discuss the entire problem with your physician. This time listen carefully and follow the advice that you obviously failed to take 11 years ago.

Arteriosclerotic changes that narrow the blood vessels to the heart (coronary arteries) and the legs is not uncommon. This can, of course, be determined by your physician.

Worth Helping

Our economic aid to Nationalist China has come to an end after fifteen years, and the headline hailing it reads "U.S. Economic Aid Has Made Formosa Self-Supporting." But the headline tells only part of the story. The island of Formosa — or Taiwan — had no better start than many other countries which have received American aid and done little with it. It has become self-supporting (a) because its people were willing to work and (b) because it nourished no grudges against the idea of letting productive individuals start things without an interminable wait for bureaucratic permission.

The 1.5 billion dollars in economic aid which went from the United States to Taiwan at a rate roughly of a 100 million a year for fifteen years was not, of course, to be sneezed at. But more fundamental to the Republic of China's success in floating itself free from American support has been its unique formula for helping the poor without robbing the well-to-do of the capital that is needed to build new industries. Free China is the world's most spectacular example of what can be done if you can discover a way of carrying through a revolution without fighting a class war.

The Great Leap Forward — and the phrase is no joke when applied to Taiwan — began with land reform. In 1954 the Chiang Kai-shek government started to divide the limited amount of acreage on Taiwan among the peasants who tilled it. Absentee landlords were cut back to maximum holdings of 7.5 acres. Everything in excess of this was sold to tenant farmers at a price equal to 2.5 times the value of the annual crop yield, payable over a ten-year period.

This, in almost any other country in the world, would have touched off a class struggle that required the liquidation of the old landlords. But the Republic of China government neatly dodged the class war by compensating the landlords with stock shares in government-owned enterprises. The landlords simply became the new industrialists. A classic example of the transformation is Chen-Fu Koo, who is now President of the Taiwan Cement Company.

He didn't want to be an industrialist, for he had inherited his family's 7,000 acres of good farmland. The 1954 program took practically all of it away from him and bestowed it on the 2,000 tenants who had been working it. Chen-Fu Koo grumbled at first, but then dug in to become head of the industry whose shares he had received in exchange for his land.

"It's the best thing that could have happened to Taiwan," says Chen-Fu Koo, who, incidentally, was one of the founders of the Taipei Stock Exchange in 1962.

Since agriculture employs some 55 per cent of Taiwan's 12 million people as compared to 12 per cent who work in industry, the island couldn't very well have been started on the road to self-sufficiency without solving the land problem. But the rise in the Formosan standard of living is closely geared to the development of new industries by the old landlord class. In 1945, when the Japanese were thrown out and Taiwan reverted to China, the population of the island was 5,800,000. The doubling of the population in twenty years means that Taiwan now supports more people than Australia, which is 200 times its size.

Somehow, in reviewing the Taiwan story on the day when it was announced that U. S. economic aid to the island had ended, I couldn't help thinking of the birth of the United States. Back in 1787 the thirteen states of the American Confederation were largely agrarian. The debt of the Confederation and the states which composed it was held by a few well-to-do citizens. The agrarians wanted to repudiate the debt. But Alexander Hamilton said no. So, after the Constitution was ratified, the debt was funded — and the U. S. was thereby assured of a few solvent capitalists who could afford to start industries to help raise the standard of living for everybody.

In its own way the Republic of China has followed the Hamiltonian formula. Now if only the Dominican Republic could do likewise. Why doesn't the OAS send a study group to Taiwan?

Worth Helping

Our economic aid to Nationalist China has come to an end after fifteen years, and the headline hailing it reads "U.S. Economic Aid Has Made Formosa Self-Supporting." But the headline tells only part of the story. The island of Formosa—or Taiwan—had no better start than many other countries which have received American aid and done little with it. It has become self-supporting (a) because its people were willing to work and (b) because it nourished no grudges against the idea of letting productive individuals start things without an interminable wait for bureaucratic permission.

The 1.5 billion dollars in economic aid which went from the United States to Taiwan at a rate roughly of a 100 million a year for fifteen years was not, of course, to be sneezed at. But more fundamental to the Republic of China's success in floating itself free from American support has been its unique formula for helping the poor without robbing the well-to-do of the capital that is needed to build new industries. Free China is the world's most spectacular example of what can be done if you can discover a way of carrying through a revolution without fighting a class war.

The Great Leap Forward—and the phrase is no joke when applied to Taiwan—began with land reform. In 1954 the Chiang Kai-shek government started to divide the limited amount of acreage on Taiwan among the peasants who tilled it. Absentee landlords were cut back to minimum holdings of 7.5 acres. Everything in excess of this was sold to tenant farmers at a price equal to 2.5 times the value of the annual crop yield, payable over a ten-year period.

This, in almost any other country in the world, would have touched off a class struggle that required the liquidation of the old landlords. But the Republic of China government neatly dodged the class war by compensating the landlords with stock shares in government-owned enterprises. The landlords simply became the new industrialists. A classic example of the transformation is Chen-Fu Koo, who is now President of the Taiwan Cement Company. He didn't want to be an industrialist, for he had inherited his family's 7,000 acres of good farmland. The 1954 program took practically all of it away from him and bestowed it on the 2,000 tenants who had been working it. Chen-Fu Koo grumbled at first, but then dug in to become head of the industry whose shares he had received in exchange for his land.

"It's the best thing that could have happened to Taiwan," says Chen-Fu Koo, who, incidentally, was one of the founders of the Taipei Stock Exchange in 1962.

Since agriculture employs some 55 per cent of Taiwan's 12 million people as compared to 12 per cent who work in industry, the island couldn't very well have been started on the road to self-sufficiency without solving the land problem. But the rise in the Formosan standard of living is closely geared to the development of new industries.

Doctors can predict many things based on their experience, but they never can guarantee the exact outcome of their treatment.

There is certainly sound medical reasoning to suggest that you will benefit by discontinuing tobacco. I can tell you that the possibility is good enough to make it worth a try.

Once again, discuss the entire problem with your physician. This time listen carefully and follow the advice that you obviously failed to take 11 years ago.

ties by the old landlord class. In 1945, when the Japanese were thrown out and Taiwan reverted to China, the population of the island was 5,800,000. The doubling of the population in twenty years means that Taiwan now supports more people than Australia, which is 200 times its size.

Somehow, in reviewing the Taiwan story on the day when it was announced that U. S. economic aid to the island had ended, I couldn't help thinking of the birth of the United States. Back in 1787 the thirteen states of the American Confederation were largely agrarian. The debt of the Confederation and the states which composed it was held by a few well-to-do citizens. The agrarians wanted to repudiate the debt. But Alexander Hamilton said no. So, after the Constitution was ratified, the debt was funded — and the U. S. was thereby assured of a few solvent capitalists who could afford to start industries to help raise the standard of living for everybody.

In its own way the Republic of China has followed the Hamiltonian formula. Now if only the Dominican Republic could do likewise. Why doesn't the OAS send a study group to Taiwan?

Rules Are Rules!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old girl who was married with my parents' consent during my junior year in high school. (It wasn't a "have to" case, either.) I found out last February that I was expecting a baby in August. When I told my principal about it, I was not allowed to take part in the graduation exercises with my class because I wouldn't have had my baby then and it would have looked "bad." My doctor said my health is fine and he saw no reason why I could not graduate with my class. I earned the right to wear a cap and gown, but my principal had my diploma mailed to me. I checked and there is no "law" about this, it was all up to the principal. Do you think this was fair?

DISAPPOINTED
DEAR DISAPPOINTED: No. In view of the fact that you are a respectable married woman, and chose to complete your high school education with your class, you should have been permitted to participate in the graduation exercises.

DEAR ABBY: A relative of mine has been sending me carbon copies of letters she sends to about five other people. The letters all begin with a general greeting like, "Howdy, stranger," or "Hi, all!" When I write to her I write personal letters containing news that I think would interest her. But in return I get these "form letters," full of references to people I don't even know. It is more like a newsletter or a diary. She has no children so she can't use that as an excuse for her carbon copies. She always closes with, "Why doesn't anybody write to me?" Apparently the others on her mailing list are about as fed up with her carbon copies as I am. Should I tell her off and let it go? I'm

Holds Meet

The Salem WSCS met in the church with Mrs. James Alcorn as hostess.

Mrs. Fairy Alkire, vice president, was in charge of the devotion. Mrs. Alcorn read the scripture and the group sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Lead On Oh King Eternal."

Mrs. Ned Boldoser, president, was in charge of the business meeting. Mrs. Boldoser announced that the annual fish fry would be held 5 p. m. July 22 at the church.

A report was given on the box of candy and cookies sent to Gene Bitzer. The group signed cards of cheer and sent them to Miss Edna Rice, Mrs. Robert Farmer and Mrs. Charles Boldoser Jr.

Refreshments were served to 12 members and four guests by the hostess.

For a delightful dessert, fill the cavities of cantaloupe halves with small sugared strawberries and top with small scoops of ice cream; or, if you like, you may reverse the process and top the ice cream with the berries.

holding off writing to her until I hear from you.

FED UP
DEAR FED: Sit down and write this relative a letter telling her exactly what you think of her carbon copy "newsletters." Then tear it up. The momentary satisfaction derived from "telling her off" would probably not be worth the regrets you'd have later. If her letters bore and irritate you, discard them unread. And don't bother to answer.

DEAR ABBY: We have always enjoyed a good reputation in town and now we are worried about what people will think and say. Our 26-year-old son, a college graduate, is now employed by a large firm. He has a bright future. He met and fell in love with a girl from another state, and he brought her home last week-end for us to meet as they plan to marry. She is 23, a pretty little thing, and so quiet and polite. We all fell in love with her.

Last evening our son told us there was "something" he wanted us to know. It seems the girl has a 4-year-old illegitimate son. She made a mistake when she was younger and decided to keep the baby and raise it herself. With the help of her mother, she finished college, worked, and managed to do this. When she and my son marry, he wants to adopt the boy, and they will live in this town. My husband was horrified. I was shocked, but being a woman, I am more understanding. What should we tell people when she comes here with her child?

AFRAID TO TALK

CONFIDENTIAL TO APPAL-
LED IN APPLETON: Don't blame the children. It's practically impossible for youngsters to learn good manners when they rarely see any.

Whisler Families Enthused With Joint Garden Project

RECREATION IN WHISLER — This two-family vegetable patch has provided a great deal of fun for the Don Moss and Charlie Barnhart families. It lay fallow for 11 years, although the Moss girls' 4-H heifers were pastured in it. Pictured are Charlie Barnhart with his rototiller, Brenda Barnhart picking beans, Lil Moss and Opal Barnhart at work with their hoes and Judy Barnhart helping her sister pick beans.

At least one Pickaway County vegetable garden has weathered the drought with flying colors.

And the colors are green and brown. . . green for the flourishing vegetables and brown for the weedless soil. This is a Whisler garden maintained by a two-neighbor combine.

This spring Charlie Barnhart, custodian at Logan Elm sauntered across the road to proposition his neighbor, Don Moss. "How about a vegetable garden in the place where the girls pastured their heifers?" he queried.

It was fine with the Moss family. The two Moss girls, Patty and Donna had of recent years kept their 4-H heifers here. But as a matter of fact the little triangular acreage had not been cultivated for 11 years.

SEEDS were purchased. A neighbor, I. J. Edmonson, plowed the little pasture for them and the planting started. Everything flourished from the start.

"Well", Lil Moss admitted, "We did plant our beets three times."

The Mosses take care of their portion of the garden and the Barnharts take care of theirs. There must be a little competitive feeling in regard to maintenance because both sections are absolutely weedless.

Charlie invested in a rototiller. He also mounted an old cultivator on a bicycle wheel complete with tire. This is his equipment. And he urges Lil Moss to use them both. But Lil says that she prefers the working end of an old-fashioned hoe.

There's about everything Ohio vegetable gardens commonly have: onions, lettuce, radishes, carrots, beets, cabbages, peppers, sweet corn, tomatoes, green beans, lima beans and soup beans. Yes, of course, there are tomatoes. Lil has staked hers.

What about Don Moss who made the garden deal? Well he's off in Indiana on a job and only gets home for weekends. Lil says that he takes a turn or two with the rototiller when he's around. But she good naturedly regards the garden as her responsibility.

THE CHILDREN help on occasion. They pick the vegetables. Judy and Brenda Barnhart often come over and lend encouragement to Charlie as he works. Mrs. Barnhart admits she leaves most of the work to Charlie except the picking.

Patty Moss, who works at the Second National Bank in Circleville, is game to help with the hoe when necessity demands. Actually weeds have not been too much of a problem on account of the drought.

The girls had lots of fun teasing Charlie Barnhart when he announced he was planting soup beans. They had never heard of growing your own soup beans. Now they are watching them with real interest.

The sweet potato rows are different varieties. The gardeners are planning on a rich harvest of this crop.

There are several plantings of sweet corn. Some rows are in tassels.

Mrs. Young's Plant Type Of Campanula

Mrs. Ernest Young, 1042 Georgia Road, has a plant in her garden that is rare in this locality. We first saw it at the Pickaway County Garden Club Flower show where it was on display in the specimen division.

Next we saw it in a Columbus garden where it formed 18-inch mounds of rich purple.

When we finally got in touch with Mrs. Young, she said she had been growing the plant for several years.

On a trip through Canada the Youngs had come home by way of Buffalo, N. Y. They had stayed at a hotel known as the Stonehouse. And back of the hotel was a hillside covered with purple and white. The white flowers were petunias.

Nobody seemed to know the name of the purple plant.

BUT Mrs. Young so admired it that when she left the proprietor gave her a strawberry basket filled with small plants.

All along the way she watered the plants faithfully and they did survive the trip.

She has several planted in her Georgia road garden. They bloom, she says, for a good six weeks. No, she did not know the name of the plant.

We found it pictured in a Park's flower magazine. It is Campanula, Glomerata Superba. Seeds for it may be purchased at Park's in Greenwood, S. C.

We have yet to find a nursery catalog that features this plant. But it's a real beauty.

Bartley Says Curious Plant Is Salsify

Floyd Bartley, Pickaway County's top naturalist, is back after eight days with the Brooks Bird Club in Mountain Lake, Va.

Area flower arrangers are glad he is home. He has identified the curious fluffy seed heads on volunteer plants that appeared along the highway, the railroad tracks and in local gardens.

The mystery plant is Tragopogon, pratensis or meadow salsify and closely related to an old garden favorite, oyster plant.

Tragopogon, pratensis is also called Yellow Goatsbeard or Goat-Bed at Noon. The yellow flower, larger than a dandelion but like the dandelion, closes at noon.

Mrs. M. E. Noggle was acquainted with the plant but she wanted Bartley to verify her identification. He did.

Meadow salsify is not edible like the well known oyster plant. Oyster plant has a blue or purple flower.

Garden Gossip

The Collis Youngs have an ideal place for a garden club committee to meet. It's a screened-in porch overlooking their very green lawn. Yes, they water their grass.

Mrs. Barton Whitten, one of those green thumbed people who can do anything with plants, gave me a start of borage about the hottest day of the year. But it lived and is now producing star shaped flowers of genuine blue.

The Ohio Assn. of Garden Clubs is taking the lead in a flower show innovation. They are training their judges to give awards in arrangements in classes for the different Japanese schools. Judges will have to be well versed in the techniques of the more important schools.

All this is a far cry from the Heaven, Earth and Man concept of Japanese arranging when three main lines were the sum total of a Japanese arrangement.

Wilbur Mast sold sweet corn at the Mast roadside stand on June 27. This is quite early for homegrown sweet corn.

Mrs. Ed Fetherolf is home from the hospital now. Her visitors are lucky enough to be given allium seed heads for their winter bouquets.

Mrs. Bernard Savy, Lockbourne, brought an enormous allium to the class in Japanese arrangement making. I do believe it was 14 inches in diameter. She gave it to the teacher.

Harry Lane, Half Ave., told his daughter that his own garden was far better than hers. His daughter is Mrs. Donald Moss, Whisler. The Moss-Barnhart garden is featured in today's Herald. So we called Harry Lane to say we'd be down to see his garden. His wife told me that he really did have excellent cabbage and many tomatoes.

Francis McGinnis, 144 Watt St., picked his first tomato June 30. He has wonderful climbing roses that have yet to bloom. All are excellent vines with thriving foliage. They just won't bring forth blossoms. Anybody know why?

Pickaway County Garden Club civic committee members put the geraniums in the courthouse circle last week. The committee was evidently waiting for the tulip foliage to wither.

Some of the area people attending the meeting where judges were shown how to score Japanese arrangements were: Mrs. Dorsey Bumgarner, Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart, Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, Mrs. Jean Crawford and Mrs. Richard Jones. The meeting was held at Lincoln Lodge, Columbus.

Mrs. Theodore Huston and Mrs. John Eshelman attended the Japanese Flower Show held recently at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts.

Our own daylilies are not putting forth their usual number of bloom stalks. We think last summer's drought followed by our June water shortage may be responsible.

Area peonies did not bloom as well as usual. And for the same reason, we believe.

Daylilies will be at their best in the gardens of the following daylily specialists: Handy Hatfield, Sunset drive; Mrs. Kelson Bower, Route 1, Circleville; Mrs. James Moffitt, E. Franklin St.; Mrs. Donald Watt, N. Court St.; and Franklin McVicker, Route 2, Williamsport. McVicker has plants to sell.

Frank Hawks, E. Franklin St., says that white roses are more subject to pests than other roses.

Mrs. Kirby Drake's wisteria still has a few blooms opening out.

The Shirley Stants near Whisler once had a curious blue flower in their yard. It had big fluffy seed heads form after the bloom period. And I did not know what it was. I am certain now that it was garden salsify or oyster plant.

Leora Sayre says that the Circleville Garden Club tour was most enjoyable. The tour started at the Donald Watt Garden on N. Court St., and

The nationally accredited flower show judges within the garden club contributed their earnings as judges at standard shows to the club and earmarked the funds for library books.

Contributing judges are Mrs. Theodore Huston, Mrs. John Eshelman, Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart and Mrs. Richard Jones. The books are now available for loan.

included Mrs. Bernard Savy's garden near Lockbourne and the H. O. Caldwell garden.

Not many people plant sweetpeas these days. They are tricky to raise. Old timers have the notion that you must plant sweetpeas on St. Patrick's Day. Maybe that's it. Who feels like getting out in March to plant seeds in a garden?

Mrs. Dale Gifford on Route 22 has a small planting of sweetpeas around a electric pole. All colors are in bloom now!

Handy Hatfield's talk on

Longwood Gardens in Kennett Square, Pa., was so entertaining that members of the Circleville Garden Club are all telling me about it. Somebody wanted to know if I had been to Handy's garden. Indeed I have. Many times! And I have never seen the garden in anything but apple pie order.

Mrs. C. C. McClure, S. Pickaway St., has perennial sweetpeas blooming along the fence. This year two vines of the white variety put in their appearance. This was a sort of pleasant surprise because they were volunteer plants.

HELPING OUT — Patty Moss, an employee at the Second National Bank in Circleville, works in the family vegetable garden when she gets home in the evening. Some of the time anyway! As a matter of fact her mother is so efficient with the hoe that there is not too much of a weed problem.

The tomatoes will be ready in a week. Both families invested in white tomatoes. They have regular and non-aud types also.

MRS. MOSS has 10 pints of peas in the family freezer. If it rains there will be a fine pea harvest.

The pointed area of the triangular garden is planted in pickles and melons. Charlie Barnhart says he is old fashioned and he recollected that pickles were never to be planted before June 21. He waited for the date.

Right now the big pickle patch looks like a kid's version of a mound builder's village. But if it rains — things will be different.

We'd say this excellent garden has provided more than a fine supply of fresh vegetables. It also has furnished recreation and considerable fun.

In the meantime everybody remember Charlie Barnhart's pickle patch and pray for rain! And it will take a good soaking to change this mound builder's village into a green pickle patch.

Kind Woman Says Shoppers Deserve 'Sitting' Places

Frankly speaking there is no "sittin' space" for Circleville shoppers.

Our attention was drawn to this fact by Mrs. Turney Pontius who believes that Circleville should provide sidewalk benches for people who like to do their shopping in a leisurely way.

Mrs. Pontius has noticed this lack in Circleville for several years and has called it to the attention of the city fathers. Merchants seem to feel that sidewalk benches may encourage loafing. One high city official told her such benches would just be loitering havens for persons with nothing else to do.

Mrs. Pontius, however, feels differently. Her tart reply is that Circleville does not have many bums. Just recently when she went to see how the Court-house planting was growing she noticed two men sitting on the iron benches near the building. Both were well dressed, even to white shirts, and they seemed to be enjoying themselves.

SHE HAS noticed that benches have been provided for shoppers at shopping centers. Mrs. Pontius has frequently visited in Jacksonville, Fla. where the city is noted for its green benches.

When Circleville imported special benches for the Pumpkin

Show crowd last fall merchants and city fathers alike were quick to point out to Mrs. Pontius that seating has been installed for the event.

Mrs. Pontius said this was all right for a start. But they should be kept all year long!

She mentioned that the Murphy Store at Court and Main has long had chairs at the front of the store. "People appreciate this courtesy," she said. There is always somebody sitting in those chairs.

Mrs. Pontius came across a tired shopper the other day who was sitting on the stone in front of one store. There was no other place to rest.

Mrs. Young's Plant Type Of Campanula

Mrs. Ernest Young, 1042 Georgia Road, has a plant in her garden that is rare in this locality. We first saw it at the Pickaway County Garden Club Flower show where it was on display in the specimen division.

Perennial Phlox Can Bring Color to Summer Gardens

In the flower world there are several species of plants that put on such a fine show during their season of bloom that they have come to be known as the Big Six.

These species are daffodils, iris, roses, daylilies, phlox and chrysanthemums.

Local gardens have a full share of all these flowers except phlox. And there is enough variety within the species to make a big splurge in a mid-summer garden.

We speak of the perennial phlox-paniculata from which most hybrids come. And yet in this area few gardeners use this fine plant for anything but an accent.

PHLOXES thrive in either full sun or partial shade. If the soil is a light sandy consistency that dries out easily it is better for the plants to be planted in partial shade.

The best time to plant phloxes is early spring although the plants which are perfectly hardy may be planted in the fall.

Phloxes are surface rooting plants and need a mulch to keep them moist. An ordinary mulch will serve the purpose. They need watering during a prolonged dry spell.

Yes they are subject to pests and fungi. We have noticed that some of the best grown phlox in this area are to be found in the M. E. Noggle garden.

Since the Noggle phloxes are disease and pest free we assume they receive the same care the Noggle roses get. This means watering, spraying, fertilizing and mulching.

Small plants will grow to full sized clumps in three years time. Dividing every three years is considered good garden practice.

There are several varieties of phlox. Some of the more popular include: Caroline Vanderberg, lavender blue; Augusta, cerise red; Charles Curtis, orange red; Cheerfulness, salmon scarlet; Columbia, light pink; Daily Sketch, salmon pink; Katr, light lavender; Leo Schlager, red; and Mary Louis, white.

Do depend more on phloxes to provide color in your July and August garden. Dollar-wise you can't do better.

Ohio Can Be Tops in Kraut

Mouth-Watering Recipes Available

Gov. James A. Rhodes has appealed to the people of Ohio to eat more sauerkraut.

The appeal came on the heels of the governor's discovery that Ohio ranks third in the nation as a kraut producer.

Well raise the flag! The proud governor believes that if we set our heart and wills to the task we can become top banana in kraut producing. And this merely by eating a mite more kraut. Let's stand firm behind the governor!

After all sauerkraut is a toothsome dish and just chocked full of vitamins.

HERE'S a recipe, kitchen tested, from Mrs. George Wolfe of Logan. It's for an easy-to-make kraut salad. Try it.

SAUERKRAUT SALAD

One large can of sauerkraut (drained). One cup of celery (diced). One cup green pepper (diced). One cup of sugar. One sweet onion (diced). One fourth cup vinegar. One half cup salad oil. Mix and chill.

Easy? You bet. Good? You'll get all sorts of compliments on it!

Let's get top honors for Ohio in the kraut producing field.

Incidentally, if you know a tasty dish using sauerkraut send it to the garden editor.

Perennial Phlox Can Bring Color to Summer Gardens

In the flower world there are several species of plants that put on such a fine show during their season of bloom that they have come to be known as the Big Six.

These species are daffodils, iris, roses, daylilies, phlox and chrysanthemums.

Local gardens have a full share of all these flowers except phlox. And there is enough variety within the species to make a big splurge in a mid-summer garden.

We speak of the perennial phlox-paniculata from which most hybrids come. And yet in this area few gardeners use this fine plant for anything but an accent.

PHLOXES thrive in either full sun or partial shade. If the soil is a light sandy consistency that dries out easily it is better for the plants to be planted in partial shade.

The best time to plant phloxes is early spring although the plants which are perfectly hardy may be planted in the fall.

Phloxes are surface rooting plants and need a mulch to keep them moist. Any ordinary mulch will serve the purpose. They need watering during a prolonged dry spell.

Yes they are subject to pests and fungi. We have noticed that some of the best grown phlox in this area are to be found in the M. E. Noggle garden.

Since the Noggle phloxes are disease and pest free we assume they receive the same care the Noggle roses get. This means watering, spraying, fertilizing and mulching.

Small plants will grow to full sized clumps in three years time. Dividing every three years is considered good garden practice.

There are several varieties of phlox. Some of the more popular include: Caroline Vanderberg, lavender blue; Augusta, cerise red; Charles Curtis, orange scarlet; Cheerfulness, salmon scarlet; Columbia, light pink; Daily Sketch, salmon pink; Katre, light lavender; Leo Schlager, red; and Mary Louis, white.

Do depend more on phloxes to provide color in your July and August garden. Dollar-wise you can't do better.

Ohio Can Be Tops in Kraut

Mouth-Watering Recipes Available

Gov. James A. Rhodes has appealed to the people of Ohio to eat more sauerkraut.

The appeal came on the heels of the governor's discovery that Ohio ranks third in the nation as a kraut producer.

Well raise the flag! The proud governor believes that if we set our heart and wills to the task we can become top banana in kraut producing. And this merely by eating a little more kraut. Let's stand firm behind the governor!

After all sauerkraut is a toothsome dish and just chocked full of vitamins.

HERE'S a recipe, kitchen tested, from Mrs. George Wolfe of Logan. It's for an easy-to-make kraut salad. Try it.

SAUERKRAUT SALAD

One large can of sauerkraut (drained). One cup of celery (diced). One cup green pepper (diced). One cup of sugar. One sweet onion (diced). One fourth cup vinegar. One half cup salad oil. Mix and chill.

Easy? You bet. Good? You'll get all sorts of compliments on it!

Let's get top honors for Ohio in the kraut producing field.

Incidentally, if you know a tasty dish using sauerkraut send it to the garden editor.

Skepticism Greets Rhodes' Call for Lake Erie Span

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The first step in Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal to build a highway across Lake Erie will be a study to determine whether there would be enough traffic to justify the great expense.

Rhodes had barely announced his idea Wednesday before criticism and skepticism arose. A. G. Lancione, Ohio House Democratic leader and an announced candidate for governor, accused Rhodes of operating "a haphazard highway program by press release." He contended the Lake Erie highway idea was "proposed as a coverup for existing highway failures" and questioned the feasibility of such a road.

Across the lake in Ontario, highway officials seemed surprised that they hadn't been contacted before any announcement.

"I would have thought that anyone seriously considering a project like this would consult people who are 50 per cent interested in it," said A. T. C. McNab, deputy minister of the Highway Department in Ontario.

But Rhodes' announcement caught even Ohio highway planners by surprise. One top engineer learned of it from a news broadcaster.

Apparently only Highway Director P. E. Masheter had been forewarned. And aides said Masheter wasn't informed until the night before the governor's statement.

Rhodes ordered Masheter's department to study the feasibility of a causeway connecting Ohio and Canada and the possibility of Canada and United States government help in paying for it.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in Washington declined to comment, but noted that a similar project crossing Chesapeake Bay was financed without federal funds. Virginia built that 17.6-mile highway, floating a $200 million bond issue to be repaid with tolls.

McNab said his department would be interested in seeing the Ohio feasibility study. But he said such a highway would be extremely expensive and he doubted that the benefits would outweigh the considerable cost within the foreseeable future.

Ontario Highways Minister Charles MacNaughton disputed the governor's suggestion that the highway would be an economic boom to both Ohio and Ontario.

"It's not too difficult to get into Ohio now," he said. "I'd like to see people use the roads we've already built."

MacNaughton also said the proposal made him wonder whether a governors race was coming up in Ohio.

The barnacle seeks out a solid object and grips it with a pair of head appendages. The little animal secretes a cement that attaches it permanently, head down, and starts to build a shell.

Roman Catholics, Episcopalians In Accord on Baptismal Rites

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholic and Episcopal church representatives late last month had an unprecedented, mutual discussion of baptism. They found themselves in agreement.

But today, a furor swirled on that same subject in connection with the rebaptism of Luci Johnson, formerly an Episcopalian, when she became a Roman Catholic last week.

The issue, in the view of church scholars, has deep ramifications for the ecumenical movement toward closer Christian unity.

Ever since Roman Catholicism stepped strongly into that movement, under impetus of the late Pope John XXIII, it has pointed to baptism of all Christians as a main basis for the work.

The theme has been emphasized by Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity, in writings and lectures.

He and other Catholic leaders have stressed that baptism of Christians — whatever their denomination — creates a fundamental, underlying tie among Protestant, Orthodox and Catholic.

The Vatican Council's historic decree on ecumenism, promulgated last December, makes the same point.

But the principle took an inferential and highly publicized shelving, in practice, at the rebaptism of the President's daughter.

That's what the repercussions are about.

It develops, however, that the rite was carried out at her request, not at insistence of the church.

In Roman Catholic teaching, any baptism is valid so long as it is performed with the right intent of joining a person to Christ and with use of water and the scriptural words, "In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

So long as these conditions are met, the baptism is considered valid in whatever denomination it is performed or whether by a layman or clergyman, and whether by pouring, sprinkling or immersion.

Rebaptism or "conditional baptism", however, implies doubt about the validity of the prior baptism.

In general practice Roman Catholic parishes and some Protestant churches, including many Baptists, have commonly rebaptized new members.

For Roman Catholics, this has been mainly a case of being sure about the matter.

This was a chief topic of discussion late last month at the first official theological talks between representatives of the Episcopal Church and the Catholic Bishops' Commission on Ecumenical Relations.

The conference, including eight Episcopal scholars led by Bishop Donald H. V. Hallock of Milwaukee and seven Catholics headed by Bishop Charles H.

Walsh Named Principal of Kingston Schools

Gary Walsh, veteran Kingston cage mentor who served as principal of the high school for four years, has been named principal of the Kingston Schools in the Zane Trace School District.

The new Ross County School district was formed by merging Kingston-Union and Centralia Districts.

Walsh has taught nine years, all in the Kingston District. A graduate of Wilmington College, he holds a masters degree from Ohio State University.

Eugene R. Murdock, who has been superintendent of Kingston Union Schools for the past two years, has been employed to serve in the same capacity in West Muskingum District near Zanesville.

Student Admits Trying To Boobytrap Teacher

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth, who police say tried to rig a teacher's automobile to explode, has pleaded guilty as a youthful offender and has been placed on probation.

Parke Reeves of Gunderland was indicted on a charge of attempted first-degree assault but County Court Judge Martin Schenck allowed him to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Reeves was arrested last March after John T. Ryan, a driver-training teacher, discovered a detonating device in the gasoline tank of his automobile. It had malfunctioned.

Reeves told police he resented a remark Ryan had made about his driving ability.

Helmings of Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., took place in Washington, D.C.

The participants agreed that the widespread practice of baptism or "conditional baptism" of Episcopalians received into the Roman Catholic Church does not conform with traditional Christian doctrine.

The Episcopalians agreed that confirmed Catholics received into the Episcopal Church should under no circumstances be reconfirmed or "conditionally confirmed" by Episcopal bishops.

In both cases, they agreed, the practices reflect on the authenticity of sacraments previously administered in the other church.

In a joint statement, the participants said they rejoiced in the new possibilities for jointly held services and common prayer and "we encourage our people to take advantage of them."

The Luci Johnson situation brought out a less harmonious note. But the incident doesn't change the underlying accord on the matter.

Skepticism Greet's Rhodes' Call for Lake Erie Span

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The first step in Gov. James A. Rhodes' proposal to build a highway across Lake Erie will be a study to determine whether there would be enough traffic to justify the great expense.

Rhodes had barely announced his idea Wednesday before criticism and skepticism arose. A. G. Lancione, Ohio House Democratic leader and an announced candidate for governor, accused Rhodes of operating "a haphazard highway program by press release." He contended the Lake Erie highway idea was "proposed as a coverup for existing highway failures" and questioned the feasibility of such a road.

Across the lake in Ontario, highway officials seemed surprised that they hadn't been contacted before any announcement.

"I would have thought that anyone seriously considering a project like this would consult people who are 50 per cent interested in it," said A. T. C. McNab, deputy minister of the Highway Department in Ontario.

But Rhodes' announcement caught even Ohio highway planners by surprise. One top engineer learned of it from a news broadcaster.

Apparently only Highway Director P. E. Masheter had been forewarned. And aides said Masheter wasn't informed until the night before the governor's statement.

Rhodes ordered Masheter's department to study the feasibility of a causeway connecting Ohio and Canada and the possibility of Canada and United States government help in paying for it.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in Washington declined to comment, but noted that a similar project crossing Chesapeake Bay was financed without federal funds. Virginia built that 17.6-mile highway, floating a $200 million bond issue to be repaid with tolls.

McNab said his department would be interested in seeing the Ohio feasibility study. But he said such a highway would be extremely expensive and he doubted that the benefits would outweigh the considerable cost within the foreseeable future.

Ontario Highways Minister Charles MacNaughton disputed the governor's suggestion that the highway would be an economic boom to both Ohio and Ontario.

"It's not too difficult to get into Ohio now," he said. "I'd like to see people use the roads we've already built."

MacNaughton also said the proposal made him wonder whether a governors' race was coming up in Ohio.

Roman Catholics, Episcopalians In Accord on Baptismal Rites

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Roman Catholic and Episcopal church representatives late last month had an unprecedented, mutual discussion of baptism. They found themselves in agreement.

But today, a furor swirled on that same subject in connection with the rebaptism of Luci Johnson, formerly an Episcopalian, when she became a Roman Catholic last week.

The issue, in the view of church scholars, has deep ramifications for the ecumenical movement toward closer Christian unity.

Ever since Roman Catholicism stepped strongly into that movement, under impetus of the late Pope John XXIII, it has pointed to baptism of all Christians as a main basis for the work.

The theme has been emphasized by Augustin Cardinal Bea, head of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity, in writings and lectures.

He and other Catholic leaders have stressed that baptism of Christians — whatever their denomination — creates a fundamental, underlying tie among Protestant, Orthodox and Catholic.

The Vatican Council's historic decree on ecumenism, promulgated last December, makes the same point.

But the principle took an inferential and highly publicized shelving, in practice, at the rebaptism of the President's daughter.

That's what the repercussions are about. It develops, however, that the rite was carried out at her request, not at insistence of the church.

In Roman Catholic teaching, any baptism is valid so long as it is performed with the right intent of joining a person to Christ and with use of water and the scriptural words, "In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost."

So long as these conditions are met, the baptism is considered valid in whatever denomination it is performed or whether by a layman or clergyman, and whether by pouring, sprinkling or immersion.

Rebaptism or "conditional baptism", however, implies doubt about the validity of the prior baptism.

In general practice Roman Catholic parishes and some Protestant churches, including many Baptists, have commonly rebaptized new members.

For Roman Catholics, this has been mainly a case of being sure about the matter.

This was a chief topic of discussion late last month at the first official theological talks between representatives of the Episcopal Church and the Catholic Bishops' Commission on Ecumenical Relations.

The conference, including eight Episcopal scholars led by Bishop Donald H. V. Hallock of Milwaukee and seven Catholics headed by Bishop Charles H.

Walsh Named Principal of Kingston Schools

The new Ross County School district was formed by merging Kingston-Union and Centralia Districts.

Walsh has taught nine years, all in the Kingston District. A graduate of Wilmington College, he holds a masters degree from Ohio State University.

Eugene R. Murdock, who has been superintendent of Kingston Union Schools for the past two years, has been employed to serve in the same capacity in West Muskingum District near Zanesville.

Student Admits Trying To Boobytrap Teacher

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 17-year-old youth, who police say tried to rig a teacher's automobile to explode, has pleaded guilty as a youthful offender and has been placed on probation.

Parke Reeves of Guilfordland was indicted on a charge of attempted first-degree assault but County Court Judge Martin Schenck allowed him to plead guilty to the lesser charge.

Reeves was arrested last March after John T. Ryan, a driver-training teacher, discovered a detonating device in the gasoline tank of his automobile. It had malfunctioned.

Reeves told police he resented a remark Ryan had made about his driving ability.

Helmings of Kansas City-St. Joseph, Mo., took place in Washington, D.C.

The participants agreed that the widespread practice of rebaptism or "conditional baptism" of Episcopalians received into the Roman Catholic Church does not conform with traditional Christian doctrine.

The Episcopalians agreed that confirmed Catholics received into the Episcopal Church should under no circumstances be reconfirmed or "conditionally confirmed" by Episcopal bishops.

In both cases, they agreed, the practices reflect on the authenticity of sacraments previously administered in the other church.

In a joint statement, the participants said they rejoiced in the new possibilities for jointly held services and common prayer and "we encourage our people to take advantage of them."

The Luci Johnson situation brought out a less harmonious note. But the incident doesn't change the underlying accord on the matter.

Cincinnati '9' Back Atop of NL Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
No. 100 didn't help, and 101 couldn't do it. So 84 became the magic number as Cincinnati again went .002 ahead of Los Angeles.

The Reds regained the National League lead by two percentage points Wednesday night when Leo Cardenas belted a home run with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning that provided a 7-6 victory over the Dodgers.

Cardenas' clinching blow was his third hit of the night and his 84th of the season. Earlier in the slugging match, Vada Pinson's 100th hit had gone to waste, and so had Pete Rose's 101st.

It had appeared a romp for the Reds — against Sandy Koufax — when they shelled the prized left-hander for five runs in the first two innings. They finally chased Koufax, winner of eight straight, in the fifth but the Dodgers caught up when Jim Lefebvre's two-run homer made it 6-6 in the eighth.

But Cardenas gave Cincinnati its second victory in the three-game set with his homer off Bob Miller in the ninth.

In other NL action — Tom Haller homered with two on in the 13th against Bob Gibson, lifting San Francisco to a 4-2 decision that ended St. Louis' winning string at seven games; Chris Short's three-hit pitching and Clay Dalrymple's eighth-inning homer enabled Philadelphia to nip Pittsburgh 1-0; Rico Carty's hitting led Milwaukee over Houston 5-2, and Larry Jackson ran his lifetime record to 11-0 against New York as the Chicago Cubs beat the last-place Mets 8-3.

In the AL — Minnesota won its seventh straight, 5-2 over Boston; Cleveland swept a pair from the Chicago White Sox by 4-2 scores, the second in 11 innings; the New York Yankees shaded Detroit 4-3; Baltimore blanked Kansas City 1-0, and Washington trimmed the Los Angeles Angels 3-1.

Gibson, who struck out 12 in his 13-inning stint against the Giants, was touched for a two-out single by Willie Mays before Haller connected for his clinching homer. Each side scored a run in the 12th, the Cards with the help of two San Francisco errors.

Masanori Murakami, the Japanese left-hander, won in relief. Short allowed three singles, walked three and struck out seven in outpitching Bob Friend in the Phils-Pirates squeaker. Philadelphia muffed a couple of chances to score before Dalrymple's homer in the eighth.

Carty drove in two Milwaukee runs with a homer and single and set up another run with a double, while Hank Aaron chipped in with a homer for the Braves. Houston's runs came off homers by Walt Bond and Jim Wynn. Ken Johnson was the winning pitcher, Bob Bruce the loser.

Rookie Chris Krug batted across four runs with a pair of bases-loaded singles, with Billy Williams adding a homer and two singles to the 11-hit Cub attack. Jackson gave way to reliever Ted Abernathy in the eighth, but the Cubs had put it out of reach with five runs in the top of the inning.

Bullet Van Slated At Goshen Friday

An anticipated meeting between George Van Camp's Bullet Van and Bret Hanover, the winningest 3-year-old pacer in harness racing history, will not materialize Friday at Scioto Downs.

Van Camp said yesterday Bullet Van will race in the Orange County Cup at Goshen, N. Y., if ready.

The locally owned pacer, considered one of the best 3-year-olds in harness racing today, has been ailing recently and possibly may not start.

The Goshen stake was chosen by driver trainer Joe O'Brien for Bullet Van because of its closeness to Saratoga Springs where the horse has been stabled.

In the last meeting between Bret Hanover and Bullet Van, the Van Camp entry was beaten by a head.

The scene of the race was the Meadows in Washington, Pa. the time of the mile was 1:57 2-5. Bullet Van was clocked in 1:57 3-5, and according to local fans who viewed the race "was gaining when he ran out of track."

Cincinnati '9' Back Atop of NL Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

No. 100 didn't help, and 101 couldn't do it. So 84 became the magic number as Cincinnati again went .002 ahead of Los Angeles.

The Reds regained the National League lead by two percentage points Wednesday night when Leo Cardenas belted a home run with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning that provided a 7-6 victory over the Dodgers.

Cardenas' clinching blow was his third hit of the night and his 84th of the season. Earlier in the slugfest, Vada Pinson's 100th hit had gone to waste, and so had Pete Rose's 101st.

It had appeared a romp for the Reds — against Sandy Koufax — when they shelled the prized left-hander for five runs in the first two innings. They finally chased Koufax, winner of eight straight, in the fifth but the Dodgers caught fire, and eventually caught up when Jim Lefebvre's two-run homer made it 6-6 in the eighth.

But Cardenas gave Cincinnati its second victory in the three-game set with his homer off Bob Miller in the ninth.

In other NL action — Tom Haller homered with two on in the 13th against Bob Gibson, lifting San Francisco to a 4-2 decision that ended St. Louis' winning string at seven games; Chris Short's three-hit pitching and Clay Dalrymple's eighth-inning homer enabled Philadelphia to nip Pittsburgh 1-0; Rico Cart's hitting led Milwaukee over Houston 5-2, and Larry Jackson ran his lifetime record to 11-0 against New York as the Chicago Cubs beat the last-place Mets 8-3.

In the AL — Minnesota won its seventh straight, 5-2 over Boston; Cleveland swept a pair from the Chicago White Sox by 4-2 scores, the second in 11 innings; the New York Yankees shaded Detroit 4-3; Baltimore blanked Kansas City 1-0, and Washington trimmed the Los Angeles Angels 3-1.

Gibson, who struck out 12 in his 13-inning stint against the Giants, was touched for a two-out single by Willie Mays before Haller connected for his clinching homer. Each side scored a run in the 12th, the Cards with the help of two San Francisco errors.

Masanori Murakami, the Japanese left-hander, won in relief. Short allowed three singles, walked three and struck out seven in outpitching Bob Friend in the Phils-Pirates squeaker. Philadelphia muffed a couple of chances to score before Dalrymple's homer in the eighth.

Carty drove in two Milwaukee runs with a homer and single and set up another run with a double, while Hank Aaron chipped in with a homer for the Braves. Houston's runs came off homers by Walt Bond and Jim Wynn. Ken Johnson was the winning pitcher, Bob Bruce the loser.

Rookie Chris Krug batted across four runs with a pair of bases-loaded singles, with Billy Williams adding a homer and two singles to the 11-hit Cub attack. Jackson gave way to reliever Ted Abernathy in the eighth, but the Cubs had put it out of reach with five runs in the top of the inning.

Pitching champions in the major leagues are those with the lowest earned run average for 162 or more innings.

John Kurtz tagged a homer for Third Nat'l 1 and he also blasted a double. Gary Dumm connected on a three-bagger and Ronald Neal and Chris McKenzie bombed doubles.

The score was knotted 5-5, in the fourth when Third National tallied three to lead, 8-5. The Vets came to bat and collected four big runs to walk away with the win.

Bullet Van Slated At Goshen Friday

An anticipated meeting between George Van Camp's Bullet Van and Bret Hanover, the winningest 3-year-old pacer in harness racing history, will not materialize Friday at Scioto Downs.

Van Camp said yesterday Bullet Van will race in the Orange County Cup at Goshen, N. Y., if ready.

The locally owned pacer, considered one of the best 3-year-olds in harness racing today, has been ailing recently and possibly may not start.

The Goshen stake was chosen by driver trainer Joe O'Brien for Bullet Van because of its closeness to Saratoga Springs where the horse has been stabled.

In the last meeting between Bret Hanover and Bullet Van, the Van Camp entry was beaten by a head.

The scene of the race was the Meadows in Washington, Pa. the time of the mile was 1:57 2-5. Bullet Van was clocked in 1:57 3-5, and according to local fans who viewed the race "was gaining when he ran out of track."

Lumbermen Win with Big Inning

Lewis Cook Insurance Drops 8-3 Decision

In Mosquito League

A seven-run surge pushed Circleville Lumber to an 8-3 win over Cook Insurance last night in the Mosquito League.

The score was knotted, 1-1, when Cooks took a 3-1 lead in the third. But the Lumbermen rallied and tallied seven in the fourth and held the Insurance-men scoreless the rest of the game.

Rock Davis hurled for the Lumbermen. He went the distance in fanning 10, walking 10 and allowing three hits.

Jamie Brown and Rex Riddle shared mound duties for Cooks.

Davis blasted the longest ball of the night. He got good wood on a three-bagger for the Lumbermen.

Keith Stevens tagged the only Cook extra-baser, a double.

NL All-Stars Hold Slugging Edge

NEW YORK (AP) — From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League All-Stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual mid-summer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting line-up, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included sluggers Johnny Callison of Philadelphia, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

This group shapes up at least favorably with the American League alternates featuring sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, Elston Howard of New York, Max Alvis of Cleveland, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are hobbled by injuries not expected to heal in time for the interleague game.

National League All-Star Manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 All-Star team.

Generally, in the past, the All-Star managers have picked players who finished second in the balloting for starting positions. But Mauch passed over first baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second baseman Frank Bolling of the Milwaukee Braves and center fielder Vada Pinson of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed

Kranepool of the New York Mets, Cookie Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility pick.

Mauch's other selections included catcher Johnny Edwards and shortstop Leo Cardenas of the Reds, third baseman Santo, left fielder Williams and right fielder Callison.

Earlier, he had named Managers Dick Sisler of Cincinnati and Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee as his coaches.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under All-Star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named when the hurlers are announced Friday.

The NL starters will be Joe Torre of the Braves, catcher; Ernie Banks, Cubs, first base; Pete Rose, Reds, second base; Maury Wills, Dodgers, shortstop; Will Stargell, Pirates, left field; Willie Mays, Giants, center field; Henry Aaron, Braves, right field.

The American League starters will include Earl Battey, Twins, catcher; Bill Skowron, White Sox, first base; Felix Mantilla, Red Sox, second base; Brooks Robinson, Orioles, third base; Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, shortstop; Rocky Colavito, Indians, right field; Vic Davallio, Indians, center field; Willie Horton, Tigers, left field. Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Zoilo Versalles of the Twins completed the American League reserves.

Through Wednesday's games, the National League All-Star squad led the Americans in home runs, 188 to 169, and in runs batted in, 702 to 665.

NL All-Stars Hold Slugging Edge

NEW YORK (AP) — From a slugging standpoint, at least, the National League All-Stars will have a decided edge over the Americans when the two squads meet in the annual mid-summer classic at Bloomington, Minn., next Tuesday.

Already boasting a powerful starting line-up, the Nationals added an attractive auxiliary group Wednesday that included sluggers Johnny Callison of Philadelphia, Billy Williams and Ron Santo of Chicago, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati.

This group shapes up at least favorably with the American League alternates featuring sluggers Harmon Killebrew, Jimmie Hall and Tony Oliva of Minnesota, Elston Howard of New York, Max Alvis of Cleveland, Al Kaline and Bill Freehan of Detroit.

Oliva and Freehan were substituted for ailing Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox. Both are hobbled by injuries not expected to heal in time for the interleague game.

National League All-Star Manager Gene Mauch, unlike his counterpart, Al Lopez, departed from custom and passed over three second choices in picking his nine alternates for the 1965 All-Star team.

Generally, in the past, the All-Star managers have picked players who finished second in the balloting for starting positions. But Mauch passed over first baseman Gordie Coleman of the Reds, second baseman Frank Bolling of the Milwaukee Braves and center fielder Vada Pinson of the Reds.

In their places, he chose Ed

Kranepool of the New York Mets, Cookie Rojas of the Phillies and Clemente. Robinson was his utility pick.

Mauch's other selections included catcher Johnny Edwards and shortstop Leo Cardenas of the Reds, third baseman Santo, left fielder Williams and right fielder Callison.

Earlier, he had named Managers Dick Sisler of Cincinnati and Bobby Bragan of Milwaukee as his coaches.

The selections left only the world champion St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros without a representative. Under All-Star game rules, every club must be represented by at least one player.

This means that at least one pitcher from each of those two clubs will have to be named when the hurlers are announced Friday.

The NL starters will be Joe Torre of the Braves, catcher; Ernie Banks, Cubs, first base; Pete Rose, Reds, second base; Maury Wills, Dodgers, shortstop; Will Stargell, Pirates, left field; Willie Mays, Giants, center field; Henry Aaron, Braves, right field.

The American League starters will include Earl Battey, Twins, catcher; Bill Skowron, White Sox, first base; Felix Mantilla, Red Sox, second base; Brooks Robinson, Orioles, third base; Dick McAuliffe, Tigers, shortstop; Rocky Colavito, Indians, right field; Vic Davalillo,

Bobby Richardson of the Yankees and Zoilo Versalles of the Twins completed the American League reserves.

Through Wednesday's games, the National League All-Star squad led the Americans in home runs, 188 to 169, and in runs batted in, 702 to 665.

GE Vacation Period Starts On Monday

General Electric's Circleville Lamp Plant will begin its annual vacation shutdown period on Monday, it was reported today by E. G. Grigg, local plant manager.

The plant will close for three weeks — the weeks of July 12, 19 and 26. This is the second three-week shutdown for the local plant as a result of changes made last year in the General Electric vacation plan. Prior to last year, the plant closed for only two weeks.

Many vacation trips are planned by the local GE employees, Grigg said, including trips to the New York World's Fair, the far west, Canada and numerous other places.

Except for a limited number of personnel who will be in the plant during the vacation period, all operations will be idle.

The plant will resume operations on Aug. 2.

payments position now? A: Despite optimism about the voluntary program, the United States deficit in the first three months of the year was $733 million. The program did not really begin to tell until the second three months. Though statistics presently are not available for the second quarter of 1965, it is believed the balance is showing a surplus. Some economists project the net deficit for 1965 at about $1 billion, or one-third the total deficit for 1964.

Q: Is that good or bad?

A: A little of both. It is good because it shows the voluntary program is working. It is bad because there is still a deficit.

The voluntary program is like a first-aid tourniquet — a temporary device that preserves the patient until there can be surgery to repair the injury.

At this stage, the voluntary tourniquet chafes. But the bankers and industrialists who complain about it are unlikely to loosen it until doctor government gives the word.

Q: What kind of permanent treatment has been proposed?

A: That's one of the problems. So far, government and the private sector seem to agree only that there is a problem to be taken care of. No program has been worked out. Treasury Secretary Fowler says the voluntary program must hold tight for at least a year.

Q: What happens next?

A: Probably the United States will lose more of its gold stock, since foreign governments still hold billions of dollars convertible into gold. But some economists feel the gold loss will taper off for three reasons: The voluntary program has limited dollars going overseas; the United States is still the world's number one department store and purchases are made with dollars, and many governments prefer to keep their dollar holdings in dollars or interest-bearing U.S. dollar securities rather than in bullion.

Q: Why is gold so important?

A: Many economists say gold is important only because so many people think it is important. Actually, gold has little useful value. Its value as money is mostly psychological. The mystique surrounding gold is rooted deep in history. But whatever the psychological or historical reasons, gold is readily convertible into currency, goods, or services in almost any part of the world.

Q: What has that got to do with the U.S. economy?

A: Because of the psychological importance of gold, many individuals and some nations regard the level of gold backing currency as a barometer of the true value of the currency. That view prevails in many European countries, particularly France and Germany, where disastrous inflations in the past have wrecked the economies of the countries. France and Germany in recent years have been the largest buyers of U.S. gold.

Q: Does the U.S. government regard gold highly as a reserve?

A: No. The United States position is that a currency is only as strong as the economy behind it. The government contends that as long as the U.S. economy is strong, the dollar is strong.

Q: What is a sign of world regard for the dollar and what does it show?

A: Possibly the clearest sign of the world attitude is the price of gold in dollars on the London market where prices are bid up or down each day. When confidence in the dollar slips for some reason, the price of gold goes up. When confidence in the dollar is strong, the price hovers near the U.S. fixed price level (plus an 8 3/4 cents an ounce service charge). Currently, the London price of gold has been ranging between $35.09 and $35.11 a troy ounce.

The grants, totaling $874,800 were made to assist the training of medical doctors in the various specialties related to cancer treatment. Each fellowship grant is for $3,600 for one year.

Ohio institutions, and the number of grants, shown in brackets, if more than one are: Children's Hospital, Columbus (2); Cleveland Metropolitan General Hospital, Cleveland, Ohio State University College of Medicine, Columbus (5); Ohio State University College of Dentistry, Columbus; St. Luke's Hospital, Cleveland; University of Cincinnati Medical Center, Cincinnati (5); Western Reserve University School of Medicine, Cleveland (3); Western Reserve University School of Dentistry, Cleveland.

Freedom Proves Fatal To Brothers' Armadillo

GRETNNA, Va. (AP) — Freedom was fatal to Harmon the armadillo.

The two-foot long armored denizen was brought here from Hereford, Tex., by three boys, Denny, David and Gary Hicks, who were visiting their grandparents.

Harmon escaped his orange crate home last week. After giving a policeman a bit of a shock while trundling down Gretna's main street, he disappeared into the countryside.

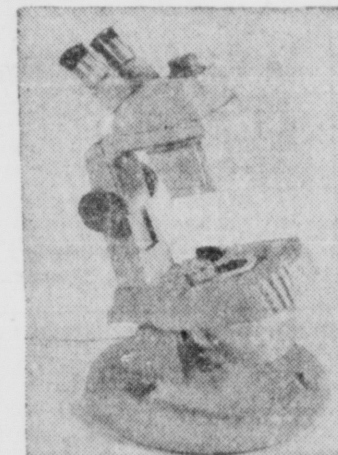

They later found him dead on the outskirts of town. Cause of death was not determined.

Items Needed by Committee for Vetereans

Dr. David S. Goldschmidt, chairman of the Circleville Committee on Employment of Restored Veterans (CERV) announced today that several articles are needed by mentally restored veterans at the VA Hospital, Chillicothe.

Dr. Goldschmidt noted that old radios and television sets are among the items needed and they will be used as occupational therapy by the veterans. Golfing and fishing equipment, books, playing cards and magazines are needed for recreational purposes.

Local residents who would like to donate any of these items, he said, may do so by delivering them to the secretary's office at the Circleville BPO Elks Lodge.

The CERV is a citizen's group that was organized by the Exit Unit at the VA Hospital in cooperation with the Ohio Elks Assn. in order to expedite the placement of mentally restored veterans in suitable positions of gainful employment.

NEXT Wednesday, Miss Janet House, in charge of Organizations Liaison for the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, will meet with the Circleville committee to study the local level operation.

Miss House will also meet with local businessmen in the Chamber of Commerce offices, E. Main St., at about 3:30 p.m. Information she gains during her visits will be included in a forthcoming booklet on community activities that increase employment opportunities for the mentally restored.

Miss House's visit here is being made in conjunction with a visit to the VA Hospital at Chillicothe.

Freedom Proves Fatal To Brothers' Armadillo

GRETNNA, Va. (AP) — Freedom was fatal to Harmon the armadillo.

The two-foot long armored denizen was brought here from Hereford, Tex., by three boys, Denny, David and Gary Hicks, who were visiting their grandparents.

Harmon escaped his orange crate home last week. After giving a policeman a bit of a shock while trundling down Gretna's main street, he disappeared into the countryside.

They later found him dead on the outskirts of town. Cause of death was not determined.

Items Needed by Committee for Vetereans

Dr. David S. Goldschmidt, chairman of the Circleville Committee on Employment of Restored Veterans (CERV) announced today that several articles are needed by mentally restored veterans at the VA Hospital, Chillicothe.

Dr. Goldschmidt noted that old radios and television sets are among the items needed and they will be used as occupational therapy by the veterans. Golfing and fishing equipment, books, playing cards and magazines are needed for recreational purposes.

Local residents who would like to donate any of these items, he said, may do so by delivering them to the secretary's office at the Circleville BPO Elks Lodge.

The CERV is a citizen's group that was organized by the Exit Unit at the VA Hospital in cooperation with the Ohio Elks Assn. in order to expedite the placement of mentally restored veterans in suitable positions of gainful employment.

NEXT Wednesday, Miss Janet House, in charge of Organizations Liaison for the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, will meet with the Circleville committee to study the local level operation.

Miss House will also meet with local businessmen in the Chamber of Commerce offices, E. Main St., at about 3:30 p.m.

Information she gains during her visits will be included in a forthcoming booklet on community activities that increase employment opportunities for the mentally restored.

Miss House's visit here is being made in conjunction with a visit to the VA Hospital at Chillicothe.
